A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE MILES FAMILY

Nathan Miles came to America with William Penn and settled at Philadelphia. Among other children he had a son Benjamin, who had three sons --- Jonas, Thomas and William. Jonas bought land in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania in 1750. Thomas took to the sea and just prior to the Revolution he had three ships. William was apprenticed to a trade in Philadelphia. Before settling down he took a trip to Europe, met and married Catherine, a native of Switzerland, came back to America where his three sons were born - Samuel in 1750, David in 1753 and William in 1755. While a lad David made several voyages with his Uncle Thomas.

William and Catherine and the boys moved to the Carolinas in 1769, buying land probably in or near Camden, South Carolina. This was within the jurisdiction of the Frederickburg monthly meeting of Friends which was organized in 1750, where Kershaw County now is. Earlier, in 1728, this district was known as New Hanover precinct, Clarendon County, Province of North Carolina. When the above meeting was organized in 1750, what was later known as Bush River, Newberry County, about fifty miles west of Fredericksburg, was still Cherokee Indian land and was called "the up country". This was opened up by treaty with the Indians in 1755, and in 1770 the Bush River monthly meeting was organized. In the records of this monthly meeting are found many entries of our forebears - Miles, Coate, Coppock, Kelly, Teague and Pearson.

Fredericksburg meeting was laid down in 1782, all members passing to the jurisdiction of Bush River. William Miles Sr. was living at Rocky Springs at the time of his death in 1789. The United States census of 1790 lists Samuel Miles with a household of seven in Camden District. Many of the old Quaker records have been lost, including those of Fredericksburg, but all that have been found have been collected and published in the Encyclopedia of Quaker Genealogy by William Wade Hinshaw.

Our Ancestry can be traced back further through the Coate branch of the family. The earliest knowledge is of Marmaduke Coate in 1670 during the persecution of the Quakers in England. He was imprisoned for fifteen years, with some slight intermission of time, for non-conformance, suffering for liberty of conscience one of the longest terms on record, but remained faithful. He was of Hambridge, Somersetshire, England.

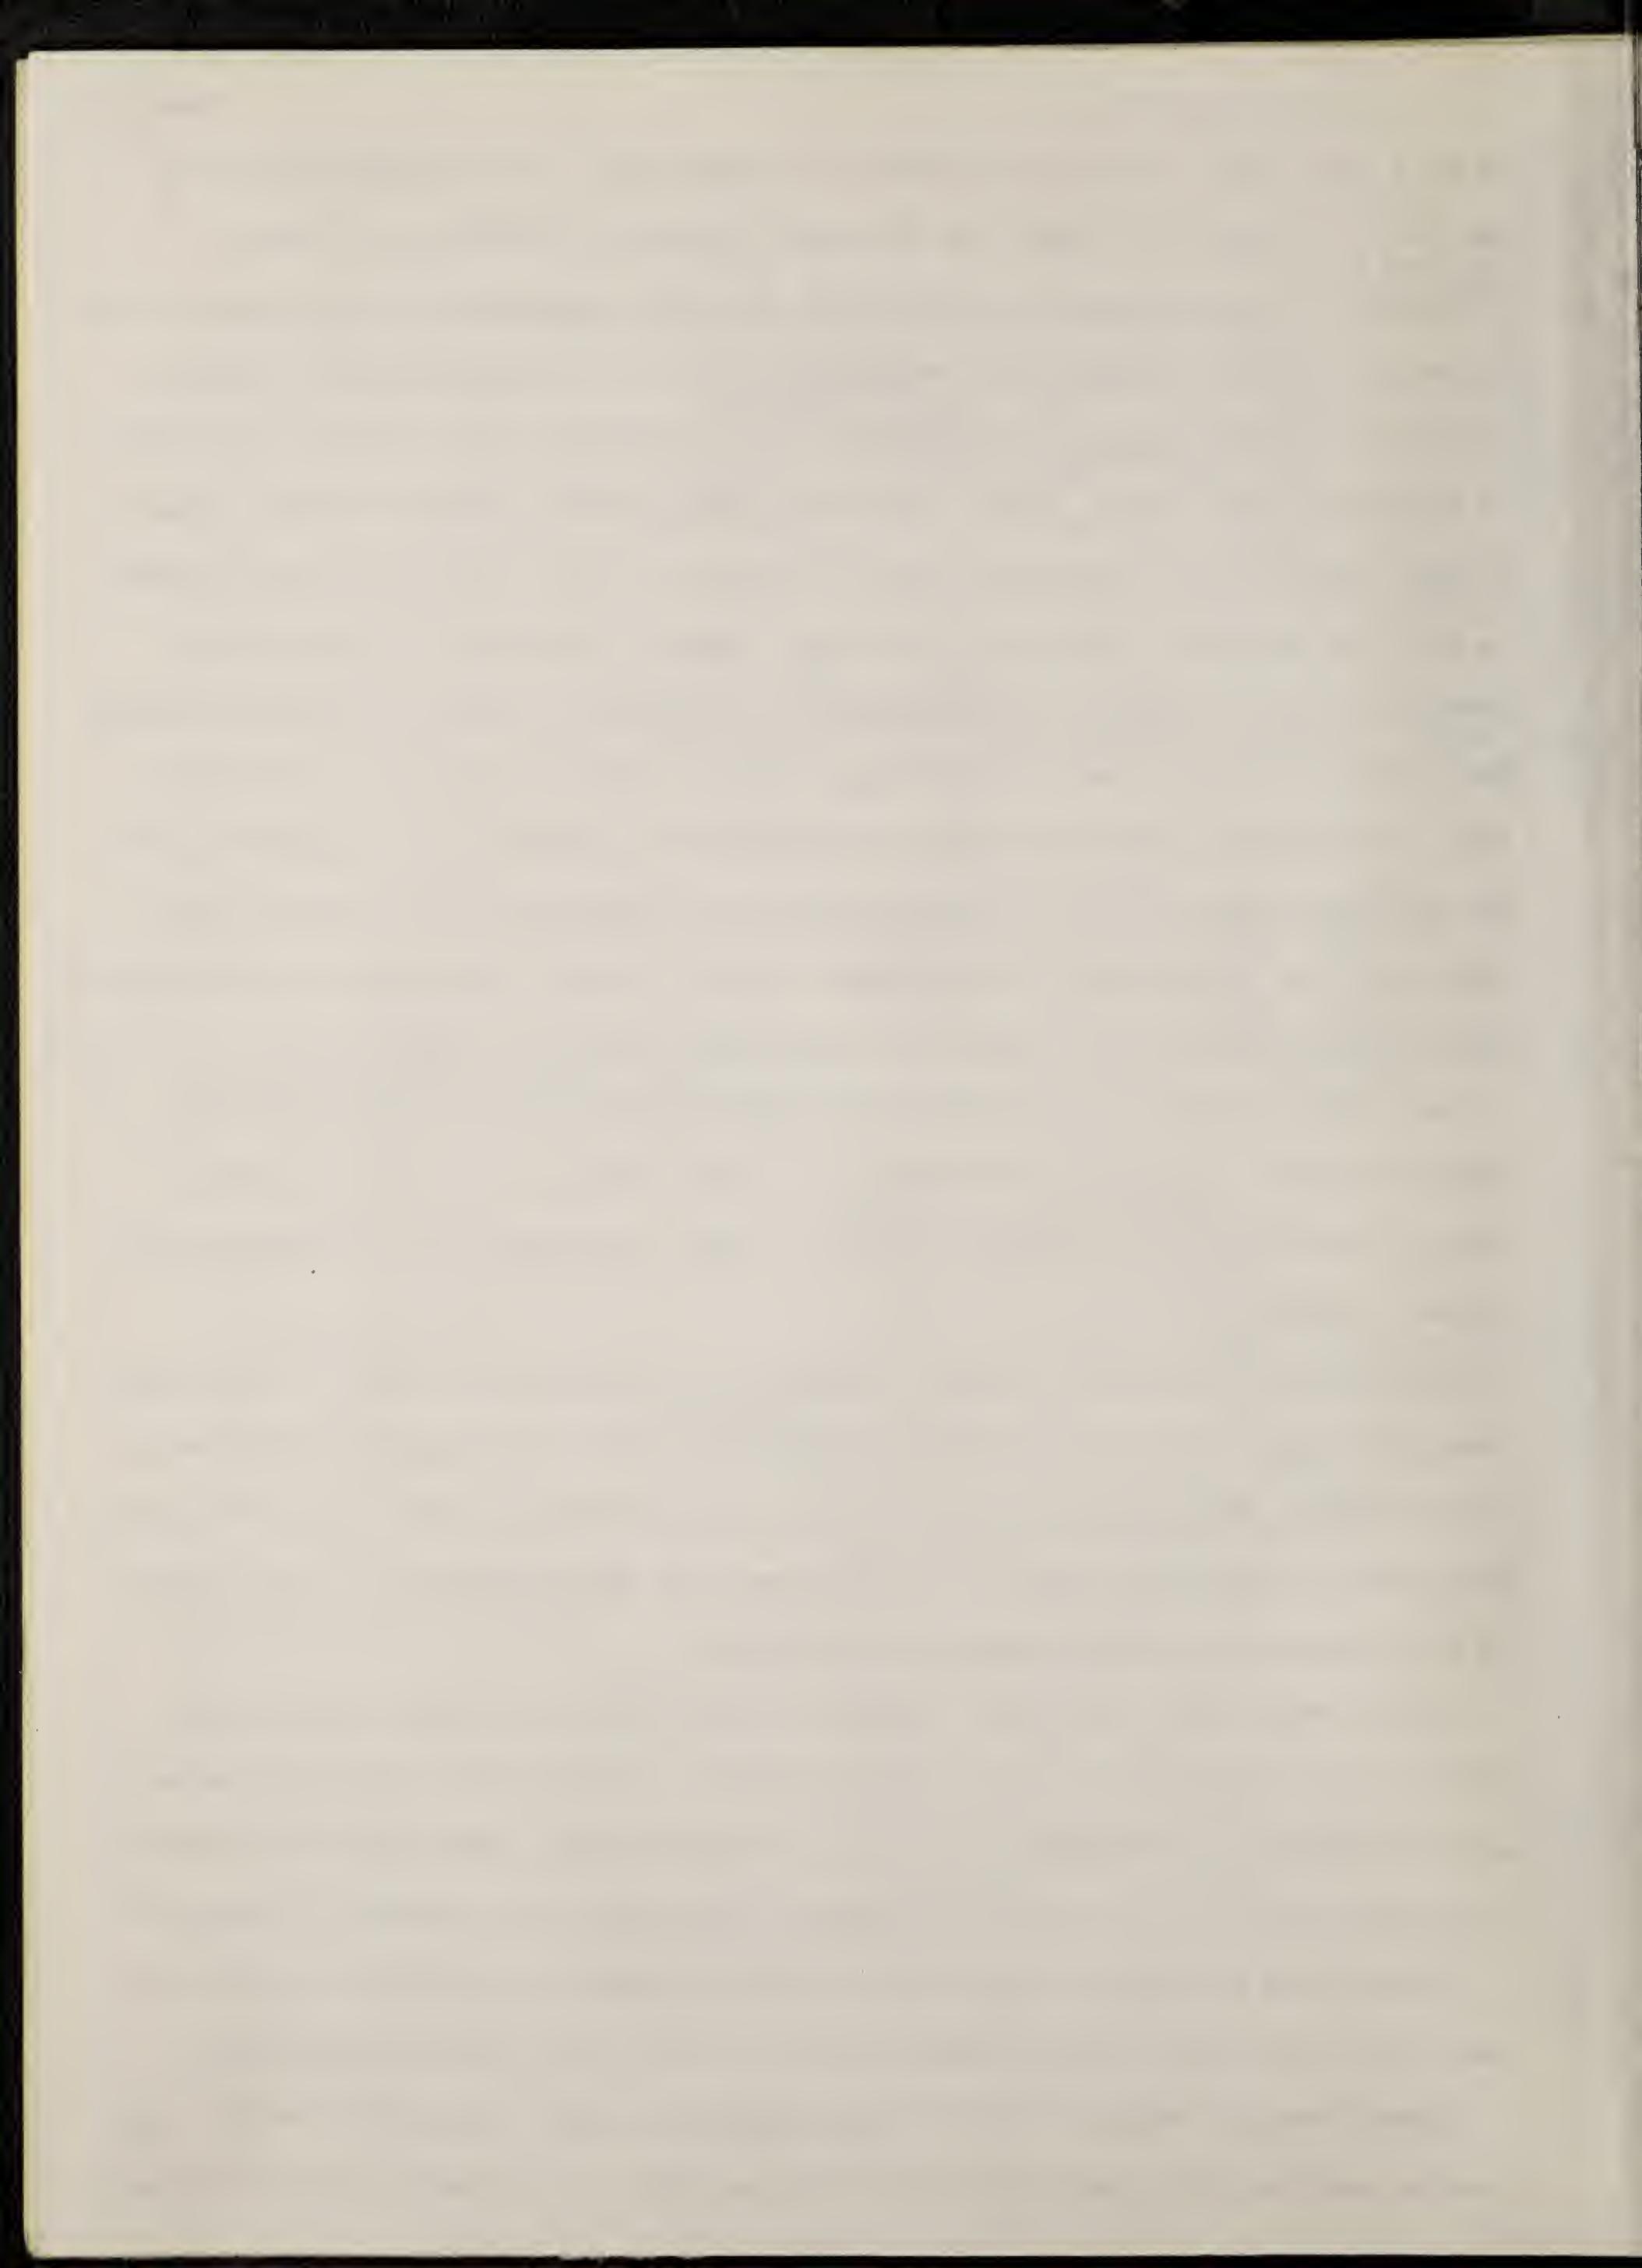

He died about 1689 leaving among others a son Marmaduke II born 1652, who married Ann Pole, a daughter of Edward and Mary Pole, originally of Wales but later of Buttlebury (?), Somersetshire. Marmaduke II was also imprisoned in 1683 together with his mother Edith for attending a meeting of Friends at Gregory Stoke. He Emigrated to America in 1690, bringing some materials for construction of a house, and settled at Burlington, New Jersey. Their son William, born in 1702, married Rebecca, daughter of Hugh Sharp in 1727. Marmaduke II died December 16, 1728. His will, dated November 6, 1728 and recorded in Trenton, New Jersey, leaves a Plantation in New Hanover, Carolina to his son William, to his issue, or in default of issue to William's sisters Mary, Edith and Hannah; land in Hambridge, England, five or six acres, to his wife Ann; also mentions land in Whitemarsh, Pennsylvania. Ann Coate died November 4, 1729. Her will dated January 3, 1729, leaves the land in Hambridge to her grandson Marmaduke III, son of William. This Marmaduke was born in New Hanover June 13, 1728, though the news evidently had not reached his grandfather before his death.

date of Moses of Marmaduke Coate Coppock
About 1765 Marmaduke III married Mary Coppock, who had been a captive of the Cherokee Indians for ten or twelve years. No trace of her people was ever found. Their first child, Esther b. 1764, was born in 1766, and Moses Coate, My Great-grandfather, in 1768. from Aaron Coulson
Our Earliest information of other ancestors also comes from Carolina. Joseph Coppock, born 1742, son of John and Margaret Coppock of East Nottingham, Pennsylvania, transferred to Bush River in 1774. He had a family of twelve, one of whom, Elizabeth, born 1776, married Moses Coates. It is not known if these Coopocks were any relation to Mary Coppock who married Marmaduke Coate III. from Paul Colone

Samuel Kelly came from King's County, Ireland, and was at Bush River in 1762. Elijah Teague, his wife and two or three children, were killed by Indians, Samuel alone escaping by jumping into the river and floating down eight miles. He returned at night, found his father alive but scalped. He carried him away but he soon died.

John Furnas married Mary Wilkinson at Standing Stone, Cumberlandshire, England, March 24, 1762. Their daughter Rebecca was born April 19, 1764 in South Carolina.

Bush River in the latter part of the eighteenth century was considered the most central and business community in the Southwest. But the Quakers concluded that they wanted to get away from slavery and when the Ohio country was opened up they moved there. Practically all of the Miles, Coate, Teague, Kelly and Pearson families made this move during 1803-5. The few members left transferred to the monthly meeting at New Garden, North Carolina. Samuel Miles, brother of David and William, and his family remained in Carolina. So at this time we find my great grandparents, the brothers David and William, Moses Coate and Moses Kelly, in Miami County, Ohio. In 1816 David Miles, son of David Miles, married Jane Coate, daughter of Moses Coate, and in 1822 Samuel Miles, son of William Miles II, married Anne Kelly, daughter of Moses Kelly. From the first of these marriages came Jeremiah Miles, my father, born May 13, 1820 near Troy, and from the second came Rebecca K. Miles, my mother, born March 29, 1824.

Their children were:

Enos P. Miles married Mary Paxson December 31, 1872.

Joseph J. Miles married Mary Kokanour September 2, 1891.

Elizabeth M. Miles married Fred Wickstrom December 2, 1877.

Samuel W. Miles married Ingeborg Wickstrom - Gillice September 2, 1882.

Jeremiah Miles moved his family to Marshall County, Iowa, in 1854, leaving Ohio when Elizabeth was only three weeks old. On the way he bought land on which the town of Blairstown now stands, but he kept going until he reached LeGrand, where he bought a stone quarry and a farm on which I was born.

HISTORICAL AND REMINISCENT

The first permanent English settlement in North America was made at Jamestown, on the banks of the James River about thirty-two miles from its mouth in 1607. The first legislative assembly in America was held there in 1619. The territory of Virginia reached from Florida to New France in its first charter. The Secretary of the Colony of Virginia in 1616 explored to the banks of the Chowan River, now in North Carolina, and reported on the fertility of the soil, salubrity of the climate, kindness of the natives, etc. (Lee's History -- Colonization of the South, Volume II.) Dissenters and non-conformers began arriving soon after. The Church of England being preponderant in Virginia, it was very uncomfortable for all those who failed to comply with the parish authorities.

In 1630 a charter was granted Sir Robert Heath, covering from latitude thirty-one to thirty-six and westward to the Pacific Ocean, to be named Carolina. In 1633 quite a body of refugees arrived and they continued to come so that in 1653, George Fox, on his preaching tour of the Atlantic Coast, found quite an interesting, earnest congregation. (Wheeler - Early Sketches of North Carolina).

In 1660 a colony from Massachusetts arrived at Cape Fear, but they were soon discouraged, even posting a notice conspicuously warning others to beware. Other attempts were made at the same point in two instances, and at other points with no more success, and it was abandoned in 1712, so Sir Robert's efforts availed him nothing, except for the refugees from Virginia.

Notes from History of North Carolina by Col. Sam'l A. Ashe.

Cape Fear River was called Charles as early as 1633 in honor of King Charles. New-town was called Charlestown, Oct. 1664. The country of Clarendon was established and John Vassal was first surveyor and Robert Sandford register. Cape Fear and Southward, next county southward, Craven, Col. Yeamans was first Governor. Charlestown settlement abandoned in 1667 and colonization transferred to Fort Royal. Afterwards to mouth of Ashley River, present Charlestown, 1671-2.

In 1662 when Virginia passed her strict non-conformist laws, (Virginia by John Eaton Cooke), the stigma of the time was the merciless intolerance towards the Friends, or Quakers. Here, as elsewhere, they were treated with a harshness which disgraced the epoch. They were denounced as turbulent people, teaching lies, miracles, false visions and prophecies, as disorganizers and enemies of society. They were fined for non-attendance of the Established Church, and forbidden to attend their own conventicles. No ship master was to bring them into the colony, no person was to receive them into his house. The poor Quakers were to go out of the country and no more were to come in. If they insisted on returning they were to be treated as felons. Quakers and other non-conformists migrated to below latitude thirty-six, to the present Chowan, Perquimans and Pasquotank Counties of North Carolina, where they could worship God as their consciences dictated. Friends meetings had been held in private houses, especially since George Fox's visit, and in 1668 a Monthly Meeting was established. There are records back to 1664. (Hinshaw - Encyc. of Quaker Genealogy).

When Charles II granted the charter to Lord Clarendon and others in 1663 with virtual freedom of action in government, except, it must be by the people's consent, one of the first acts of the proprietors was to create the county of Albemarle, calling it a Quaker County, and appointing by Governor Berkeley of Virginia, also a proprietor, William Drummond, the first governor. He was a very successful governor and the only one in all Carolina. He died in 1668. The first Legislature was established in 1667, at which time the population was 4,000. No freer laws were ever enacted by man. (Wheeler). Freedom of conscience and security from taxation, except by their own consent, were their first object. No one could collect a debt which arose outside the colony within five years. The immigrant was exempt from taxation for one year. Every immigrant received a bounty in land. They submitted to no unjust laws, bowed to no master on earth. In 1683 South Carolina purchased the rights of Lord Clarendon, and came to govern and there were troublous times, but the people ruled, and Southel was tried, removed from office, and imprisoned and exiled. Albemarle was called North Carolina by Virginia Council in 1688, and in 1689 Ludwell was a commissioned governor of that part of the province north and east of Cape Fear ( 1689 - 1693 ).

About 1691, the "John Locke Constitution", in use for several years, was abrogated, and that portion of Carolina, north of the Santee River, was called North Carolina, and the four southern counties (Colleton, Berkeley, Clarendon and Craven) were South Carolina. Ludwell was instructed to govern both Carolinas as he saw best. The part north of Cape Lookout was, however, still called Albemarle, until King George, about 1723, decreed the boundary between North and South Carolina to be a line due west from Cape Fear, called Clarendon, with one precinct, New Hanover. The large holdings of land in South Carolina made conditions undemocratic and were the cause of the rebellion in South Carolina in 1719, when the crown took over the political rights of appointing the governor for South Carolina, but allowing North Carolina freedom of action. These boundaries held until the survey of 1738 of the present boundary line between the states. North Carolina abrogated these large counties in 1738 and substituted small counties with sheriffs in each. John Smith was ( 1693 ) appointed governor, but his opinions were so different from those of the colonists that he suggested John Archdale, a Quaker, who was a wise, good governor; he also governed South Carolina.

Governor Archdale was authorized to sell land for what he could reasonably get for it -- 10 per 1000 acres, 5 shillings per year per 1000 acres Quit rent. Thousands of acres sold but not seated. Administration largely left in the hands of Harvey, Archdale's secretary. Governor Hyde on his accession, 1713 - 14, forbade these large, unseated sales and limited them to 640 acres to be at once settled on, which policy was continued by Gov. Eden in 1714 - 22, but abrogated by Governor Burrington, 1723, and large grants allowed. Patents were issued in blank without location in Cape Fear region, 1500 to 5000 acres, about 1725 - 29. Advantage of good port and harbor was emphasized. Grants of land were not recorded to avoid quit rent.

Such were the colonization conditions when the Crown took over the landed interests of the proprietors in 1729. There was also rivalry between North and South Carolina about boundaries. Their first act was authorization given to the Board of Trade of London for colonization and settlement of both provinces. Burrington successfully argued before the Board of Trade that his "grants, patents, etc., should not be disturbed." This included large grants up to 100,000 acres in New Hanover. The Board of Trade in early 1730's granted to a syndicate, McCulloch, Huey and Cymbal, 12 tracts of land of 100,000 acres each, also other large grants of thousands of acres each. No quit rent for 10 years, having that time for settlement. "Henry McCulloch, Inspector General of the grants and revenues of the King in both North and South Carolina, 1736," and later. Indications are that the above syndicate was responsible for the settling of the South Carolina townships mentioned in the history of Orangeburg, also the Western part of New Hanover up to the Indian Country, and that said immigration came mostly by way of Charlestown. However, much came by way of Salisbury and New Bern roads, from Perquimans and from Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and thereabouts. This is particularly the case nearer Bush River. The Bush River Monthly Meeting of Friends was organized in 1770 by the Little River Quarterly Meeting of Perquimans Co., N. Carolina.

Both of the Carolinas settled rapidly from about 1675, at which time Charlestown had fairly got started, the population of which in 1679 was about 1200. Charlestown Friends arrived in the 1680's and claimed their authorization from London. Later they were assigned to Bush River.

Weeks mentions that the Quaker meetings of Charlestown, Fredericksburg and Edisto were "very independent." The former was told they should unite with the North Carolina Quakers, but they did not. The same thing occurred when the Little River or Perquimans Committee established Bush River. They would not unite so were left to themselves for awhile. Weeks tells of Rocky Springs being a very thriving Quaker community in the 1760's "a preparative meeting," the step between a meeting of worship and a monthly meeting. The first mention of Fredericksburg functioning as a Monthly Meeting in transfers, etc., is in 1752. The first meeting in America was in Burlington, New Jersey in 1681, and the first organic relation with Philadelphia was in 1683. Monthly and Quarterly Meetings were established in England in 1669. However, Hinshaw states that Perquimans Monthly Meeting was established in 1668. London established the Charlestown Monthly Meeting in 1681 - 2 (Simmes) and the New England Yearly Meeting in 1683. Weeks says that all southern colonies probably were established by the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting and "came by sea." Fox in 1681 recommended their all uniting but the idea was not carried out until in the 18th century. Hopewell, Virginia meeting was established in 1733 from Chester Quarterly, Pa. Pine Tree Hill functioned as a Monthly Meeting in 1753. Charlestown, Wateree and Edisto did not elect to join with North Carolina.

A large colony of Swiss settled about New Bern about 1710, which checked the spread of Quakerism to the Southward for awhile, but about 1748 some settlements were made about Kingston and Goldsborough Piney Groves, from which sprang Gum Swamp, Pee Dees, and others not connected with Bush River, was established in 1755.

Mass immigration, Henderson says, started to Cape Fear in 1720, principally Gaels or Highland Scotch. They worked West and up Cape Fear River, until in 1730 - 1740 as much Gaelic was spoken as English. New Hanover is spoken of by Martin, Vol. II, as "There is no country more devoted to freedom and patriotism than New Hanover."

Brunswick in present county of Brunswick was evidently the seat or capital of New Hanover precinct as we read in history that Governor Gabriel Johnson arrived at Cape Fear in October, 1734, and in November took the oath of office in the Court House in the town of Brunswick and precinct of New Hanover, and afterward proceeded to the capital of the Province at New Bern. So at that date rivalry was strong between the two Carolinas, and the dividing line from Cape Fear due West would pass a little south of present Columbia.

All townships in the Carolinas were laid out by the same rule. A center was established on each river designated, surrounded by about 20,000 acres, and each colonist was allowed 50 acres for himself, 50 for his wife and 50 for each child and one lot in town. The colonist was allowed 10 years for settlement before the grant was given and quit rent was collected. This land was exclusively for colonists from abroad. Additional settlers could take out any unoccupied land adjoining on the same terms. Council employed James St. Julien for £ 500 to survey the township of Fredericksburg in 1731 at the most convenient place, which he finished the spring of 1732, with 12 miles up, 12 miles down the river and 12 miles back, all East of the "Watery". James Ousley took the first grant the spring of 1733 on West side of Wateree, nearly opposite present Camden, of 300 acres. This grant passed to Nebo Gaunt, thence to Joseph Kershaw. An old settlers list mentions Robert Millhouse and Samuel Mathis in the same year as Ousley, also Thomas Brown and Thomas Hannahan in 1735 on the West side. On the East side of the river grants were issued to Adam Strain, David Alexander, James McGowan, Hugh McCuthan, Michael Harris, William Seawright and Robert Seawright in 1737 -- To Timothy Kelly, Roger Gibson, William Payne, 1747; John Todd, Anthony Wright, Bryan Toland, John William Scott, 1748; John England, George Bearfoot, 1749; Robert Millhouse, 1751; Joseph Evans, 1752; William Undas, Absalom Odum, 1755, all on the West side of the river. There are about 90 others on East side previous to 1755. The exact date of the Quakers coming is unknown but the first grant was in 1757. They mostly came by the river, as did others of the pioneers and settled mostly West of the river. A singular fact is that grants were not taken out for eight or ten years after they came, as was the case with other pioneers. Robert Millhouse is credited with being the leader of the colony, and Samuel Mathis as being the first white child born in Camden, but Samuel Wyley, West of the river, outside the town limits, a surveyor and merchant, had a son born four years before Samuel Mathis. On account of grants not being taken out on arrival, it is hard to tell just when certain ones came, but many are mentioned in later Quaker transfer records as to where they came from and when.

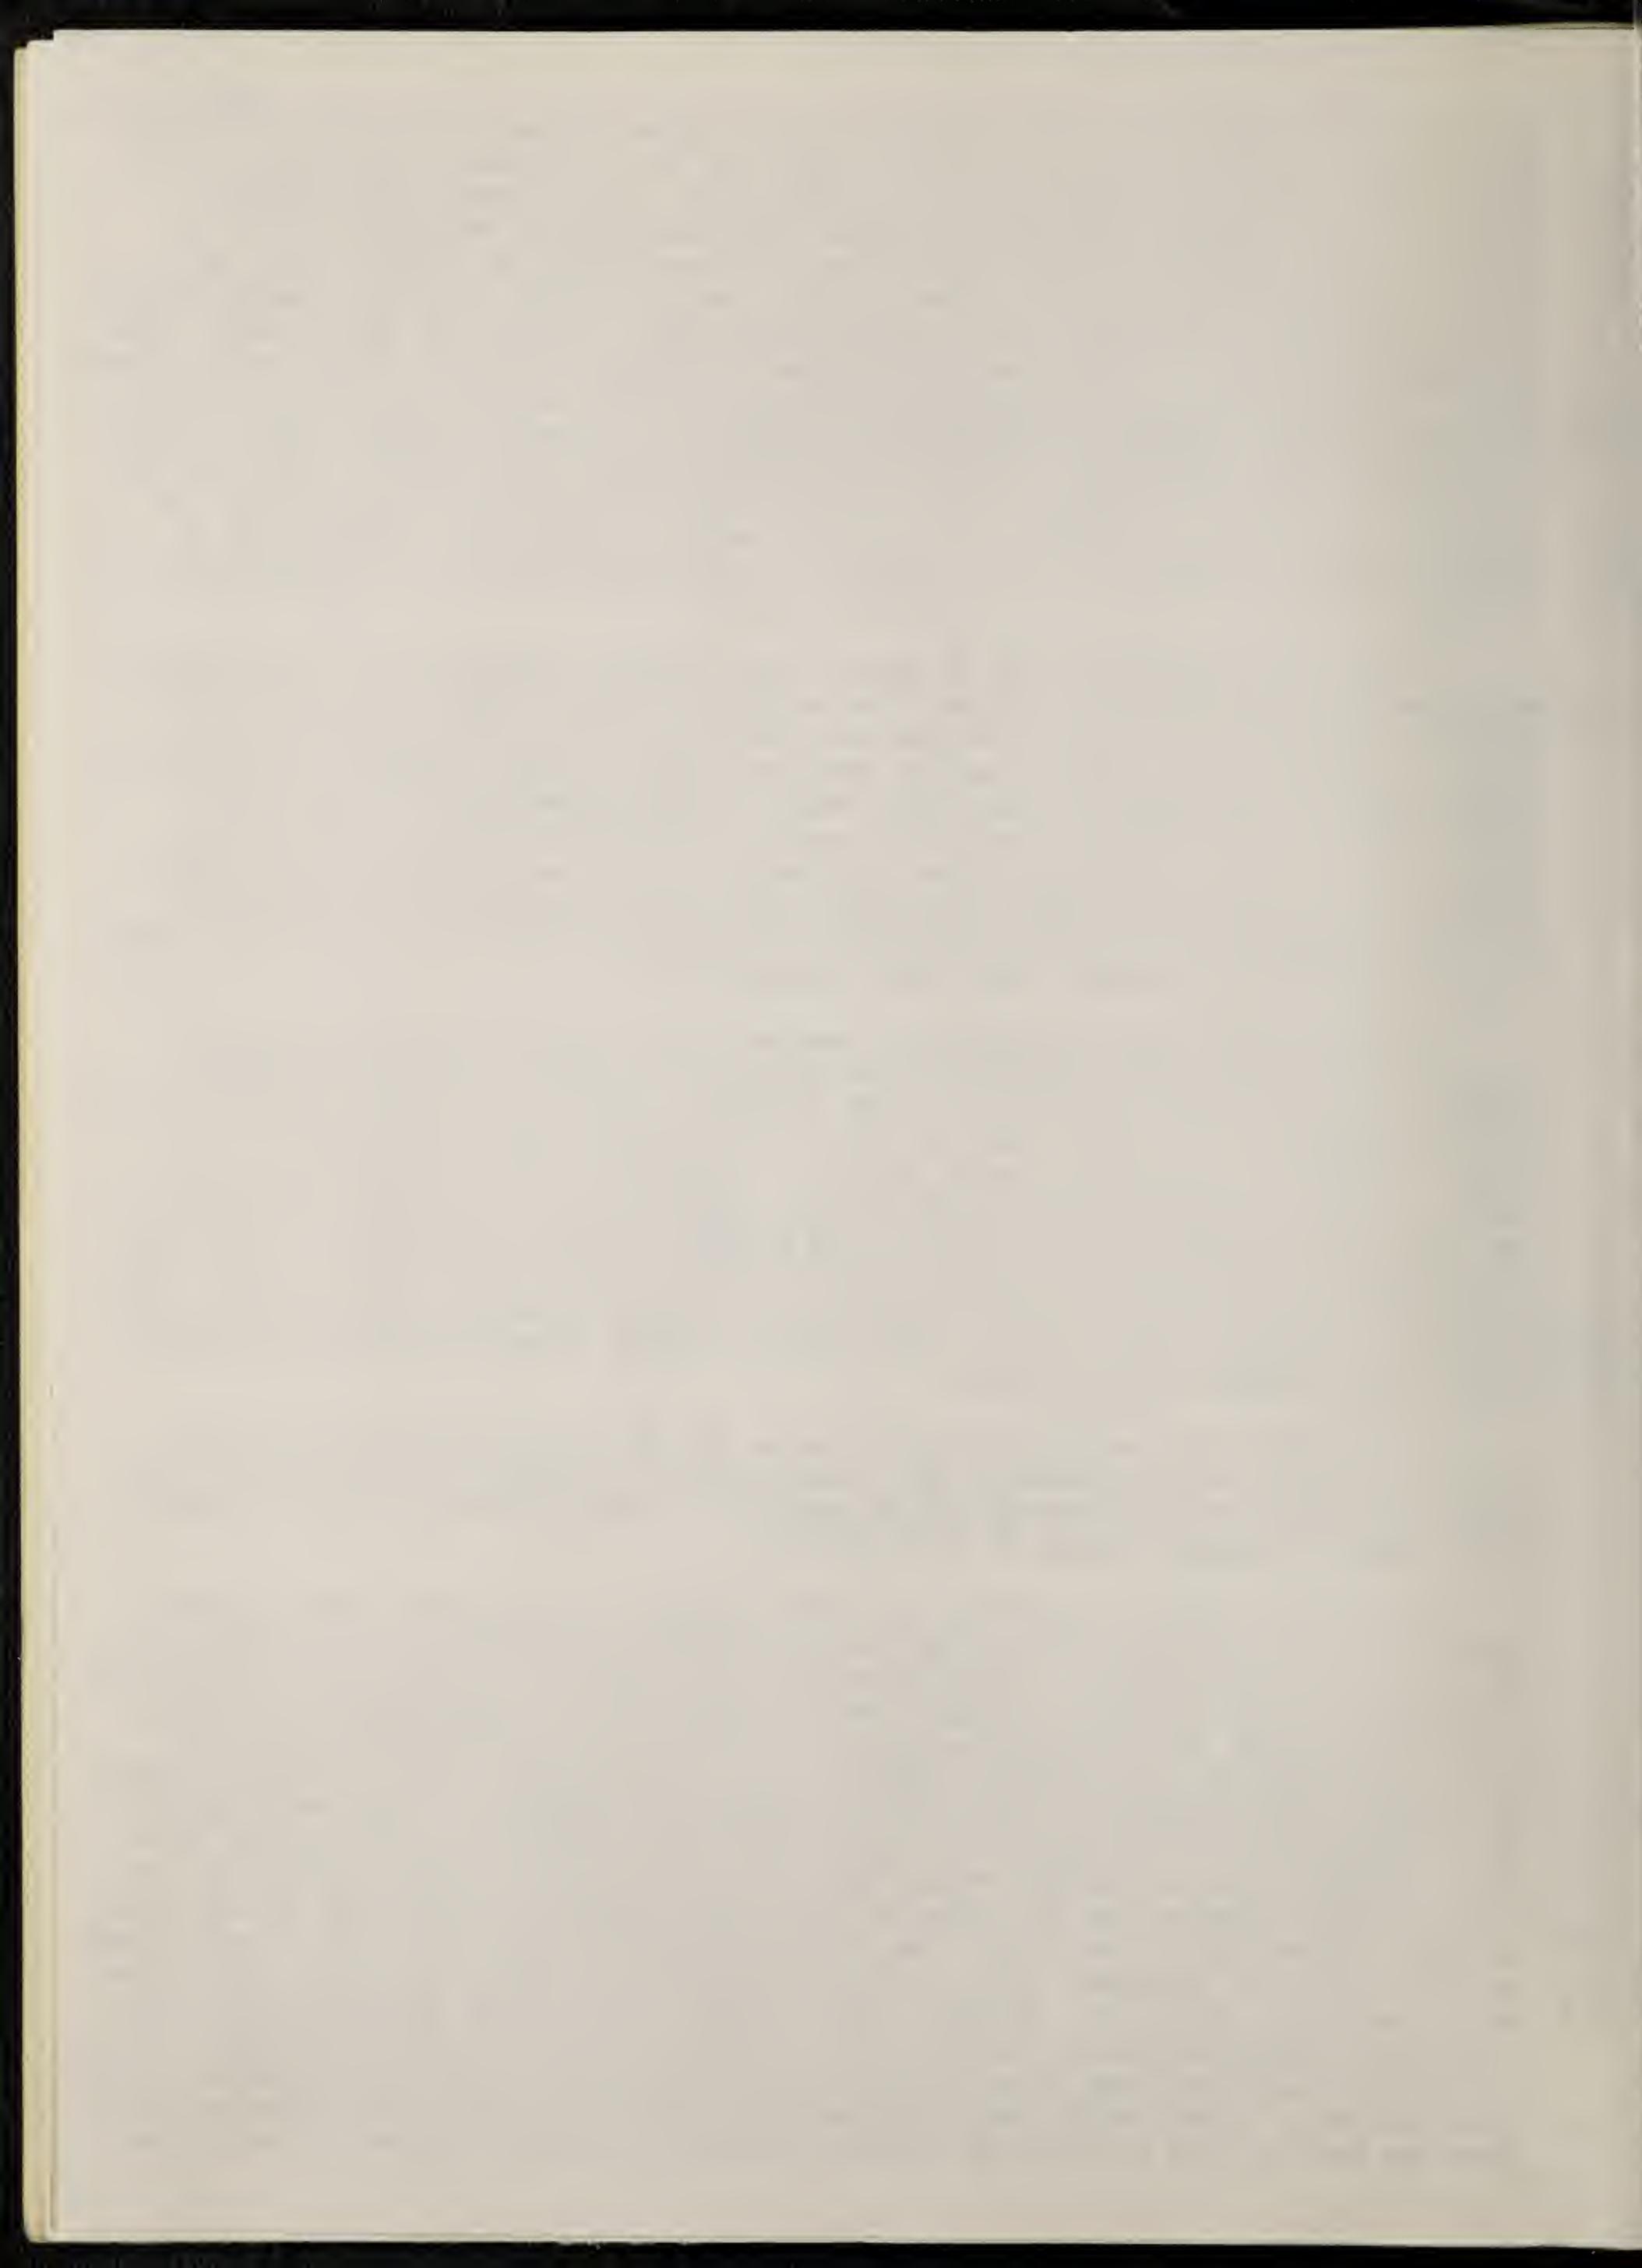

The History of Camden says, "One cannot tell by a name whether one is a Quaker, but if he affirms instead of swears, it is pretty sure he is a Quaker." Besides the following list given, there are about 20 of which they are not sure. Names known as Quakers: Robert, Samuel and Henry Millhouse, John and Abigail Millhouse, David and Sophia Mathis, Samuel Mathis, Joshua, Robert and Thomas English, Jonathan (or John) Belton, Joseph and Robert Evans, John Wright, Timothy and Walter Kelly, Samuel Russell, Josiah and William Tomlinson, John Furnas, Nebo (1744), Zebulon and Zimri Guant, 1754 Burlington Co., N. J., Samuel Wyley, and Dinah Millhouse, his wife, James and John Adamson. Joshua English had a grant of 70,000 acres 13 miles south of Camden for colonization purposes. Nebo Guant owned the ferry, sold it to Joseph Kershaw, also the land he purchased of James Ousley. Friends Meeting for worship were probably held in 1750 or before. Monthly Meeting was functioning in 1753 (Weeks). Four acres of land was leased for 999 years by Timothy Kelly, Samuel and John Millhouse, Trustees, at a yearly rental of 1 peppercorn (if demanded) for a burial ground and meeting house - 9 - 6 - 1759.

A building was probably put up several years before the purchase as the indenture speaks of the buildings Kershaw & Co.'s store, mill and other industries were a branch of a parent business in Charlestown. Early in 1760 the mills put out a fine grade of flour; later a brisk trade in tobacco, indigo, flour, deerskins and beef was transported by circuitous and expensive route to Charlestown. For a long period Camden was the most important interior town in the province. Somewhat larger than Granby. A Court House was established in Camden in 1768, and it received the second charter in the province in 1791. The south part of Fredericksburg was swampy and malarial and not fit for settlement until it was drained later. One family lost eight children. Settlement passed to the west and southwest.

We find Timothy Kelly mentioned as deceased in 1776 and a Trustee appointed in his place. Quakers still kept coming from other points, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and Berkley Co., South Carolina; and pushing on west. They found no town but spread out on both sides of the river above and below the present site of Camden but more on the west. Samuel Wyley had a store on the west side about 1750 or before. Joseph Kershaw was the first to bring some semblance of order in 1758 when he established his store on the site of the present Camden. He called the settlement Pine Tree Hill from Pine Tree Creek, which derived its name from an old Catawba trail crossing the creek on a large pine log a short distance above its entrance into the Wateree. The Catawba trail is now Broad Street. Meeting Street got its name because it ran to the Quaker Meeting House.

West of the river was called West Wateree and of course by Friends usage when they got too far out for conveniently attending Pine Tree Hill 20 or 25 miles, they simply organized another Meeting called Wateres or Fredericksburg, which functioned as a Monthly Meeting as early as 1753 (Weeks).

From the junction of the Broad and Soluda rivers a German settlement extended west and north to within  $3\frac{1}{2}$  miles of present Newberry Court House, called Dutch Fork. It was in all probability a continuation from Saxe-Gotha Tp., described in History of Orangeburg Co., as settled by people from the Palatines and thereabouts. All these townships (eleven) in So. Carolina laid out in 1731-32, were rapidly settled from Charlestown through the McCullock syndicate at so much a head. That syndicate brought in settlers from anywhere it could get them and they operated in both the Carolinas, North Carolina mostly was settled by people from N. E. part of North Carolina, Virginia, Pennsylvania and points north. The first grant in Dutch Fork was to Adam Summers in 1745. Allowing for the terms of settlement allowed the syndicate by the Board of Trade (10 years) it would throw the actual settlement about 1735, which would about coincide with the settlement of the other townships. Now above Dutch Fork, where Newberry now stands, there was an early grant to John James, which John Coate purchased and owned in 1752, adjoining William Coats residence, who was known from Quaker records to have resided there many years previous to 1762, as also were William, Benjamin and Enoch Pearson, George Inman, David Jenkins and others. Just when these Quakers settled there we seem to have no means of finding out, but it was the nucleus of Bush River

Monthly Meeting established in 1768-80 and the greatest central Quaker community in South Carolina succeeding Fredericksburg, 1750 to 1782, when the latter was laid down. There was a large influx of members to Bush River for nearly 50 years, when, owing to the feeling against slavery, together with the fanatical preaching of one Dickson, the members moved almost en masse to Ohio. A regrettable circumstance is the entire loss of the Fredericksburg Friends records, while Bush River's are not complete, particularly the women's records. There is no mention of Catherine, wife of William Miles I except that they were the parents of Samuel, b. 1750, David, b. 1753, William, Jr., b. 1755; that William and son Samuel Miles were received on request in 1776; that David and William, Jr., sons of William and Catherine Miles, were received on request in 1777. No mention of where they came from. Samuel says they came to So. Carolina in 1769 but does not say from where, but leaves the inference from Pennsylvania. Samuel Miles, son of William & Catherine was Married 1-1-1771 to Mary, dau. of Jonathan and Mary Taylor (B. R. records) yet he was not received in membership until 1776, Bush River records (?). It is abundantly evident that Quaker records in So. Carolina were not as strictly kept up to and including above marriage as they were later. The records of Pine Tree Hills, Fredericksburg and Bush River, None of them, can tell when worship was first established. The latter, in particular, tells the committee from Little River Quarterly on 1767-68 Meeting, sent to inquire into their right to a monthly meeting, they were unable to tell when their meetings started, but they do know that certain members, Coate, three Persons, George Inman and David Jenkins were living there many years before 1762. From "Annals of Newberry" we learn that John Coate bought from John James about 1750 the land covering the townsite of Newberry and adjoining William Coate's residence. It appears that above land was early occupied and probably one of the many unseated grants made by Gov. Burlington in the later part of his administration in Western New Hanover, as also the Coate, Pearson, Inman and Jenkins. This would account for the sudden breaking off of the German settlement  $3\frac{1}{2}$  miles of the Newberry Court House, while still in some of the richest land in the state. It was already occupied. These Germans mostly from the Palatinate were brought in by the McCulloch syndicate at so much per head (Ashe) to settle on any land not occupied, allowing them 10 years to make settlement without quit rent. Land was taken up under those rules east of this, including Fredericksburg To. (or later Camden) settlement, which was the head of navigation on the Wateree and the central receiving and distributing point for that region, as was also Fort Granby at the confluence of the Broad and Soluda Rivers for that point. Bush River Quaker settlement was on Bush River above the German settlement, 3 or 4 miles on each side and for several miles up and was called the cream of the country. Above that was the Baptist, North, and Dunkers (Annals of Newberry by John Belton O'Neal).

I find a difference in dates of settlement of parts of the country and have striven to arrive at a fair estimate, all things considered. (The History of Rowan County by Jethrow Rumble), describes that a trip into that section in 1701, starting at the mouth of the Santee River and passing up between the Santee and Pee Dee Rivers and striking the Catawba Country near present Charlotte, North Carolina. He describes the "up country" or Piedmont, as Savannah ground, high and dry, having very few trees on it. Fine bladed grass six feet high.

This country was early occupied by grazers, probably through McCulloch, Scotch and German principally. They kept great herds of cattle and horses, took up large bodies of land sometimes remote from settlement. Here herbage was plentiful and the cattle bred in vast numbers, needing but occasional care and attendance and a little salt for keeping them docile. In such a country great numbers of reckless men preyed upon the land, stole horses, cattle and even your land. Thus was born the regulators, which in later years we called the "Vigilance Committee." The settlers organized to protect themselves. There was even a struggle called the Regulators War in 1768. Rebellion against excessive taxes terminating in the battle of Alamance in 1771.

Salisbury, North Carolina was founded in 1720, was at that time the end of the Great Trading Trail (Henderson) carrying from Philadelphia through Virginia and up the Piedmont of North Carolina, finally connecting up with the Charlestown road at Fort Motte (established in 1716) and Fort St. John or Granby (established in 1719) at the confluence of the Broad and Saluda Rivers.

There was always contention over boundaries between the Carolinas and the fact that South Carolina in establishing her townships, seemed to use the Congaree at about present Columbia as her northern boundary and made no attempt to organize her districts until 1768, which was about the time that Governor Tryon confirmed the first survey of 1738 and made the next two surveys on 1764 and 1771 to near Charlotte, North Carolina. South Carolina in 1768 organized districts number ninety - six, Camden, etc., and counties about 1788 - 89.

Soon after the great London Indian Treaty was made, which was about 1730, South Carolina established townships of about 20,000 acres each, divided into 50 acre lots. A man was allowed to take one lot each for himself, wife and each child. Amelia Township opposite present Columbia was almost altogether taken up by Moses Thompson and his connections in 1730. Several of which are mentioned in "History of Orangeburg."

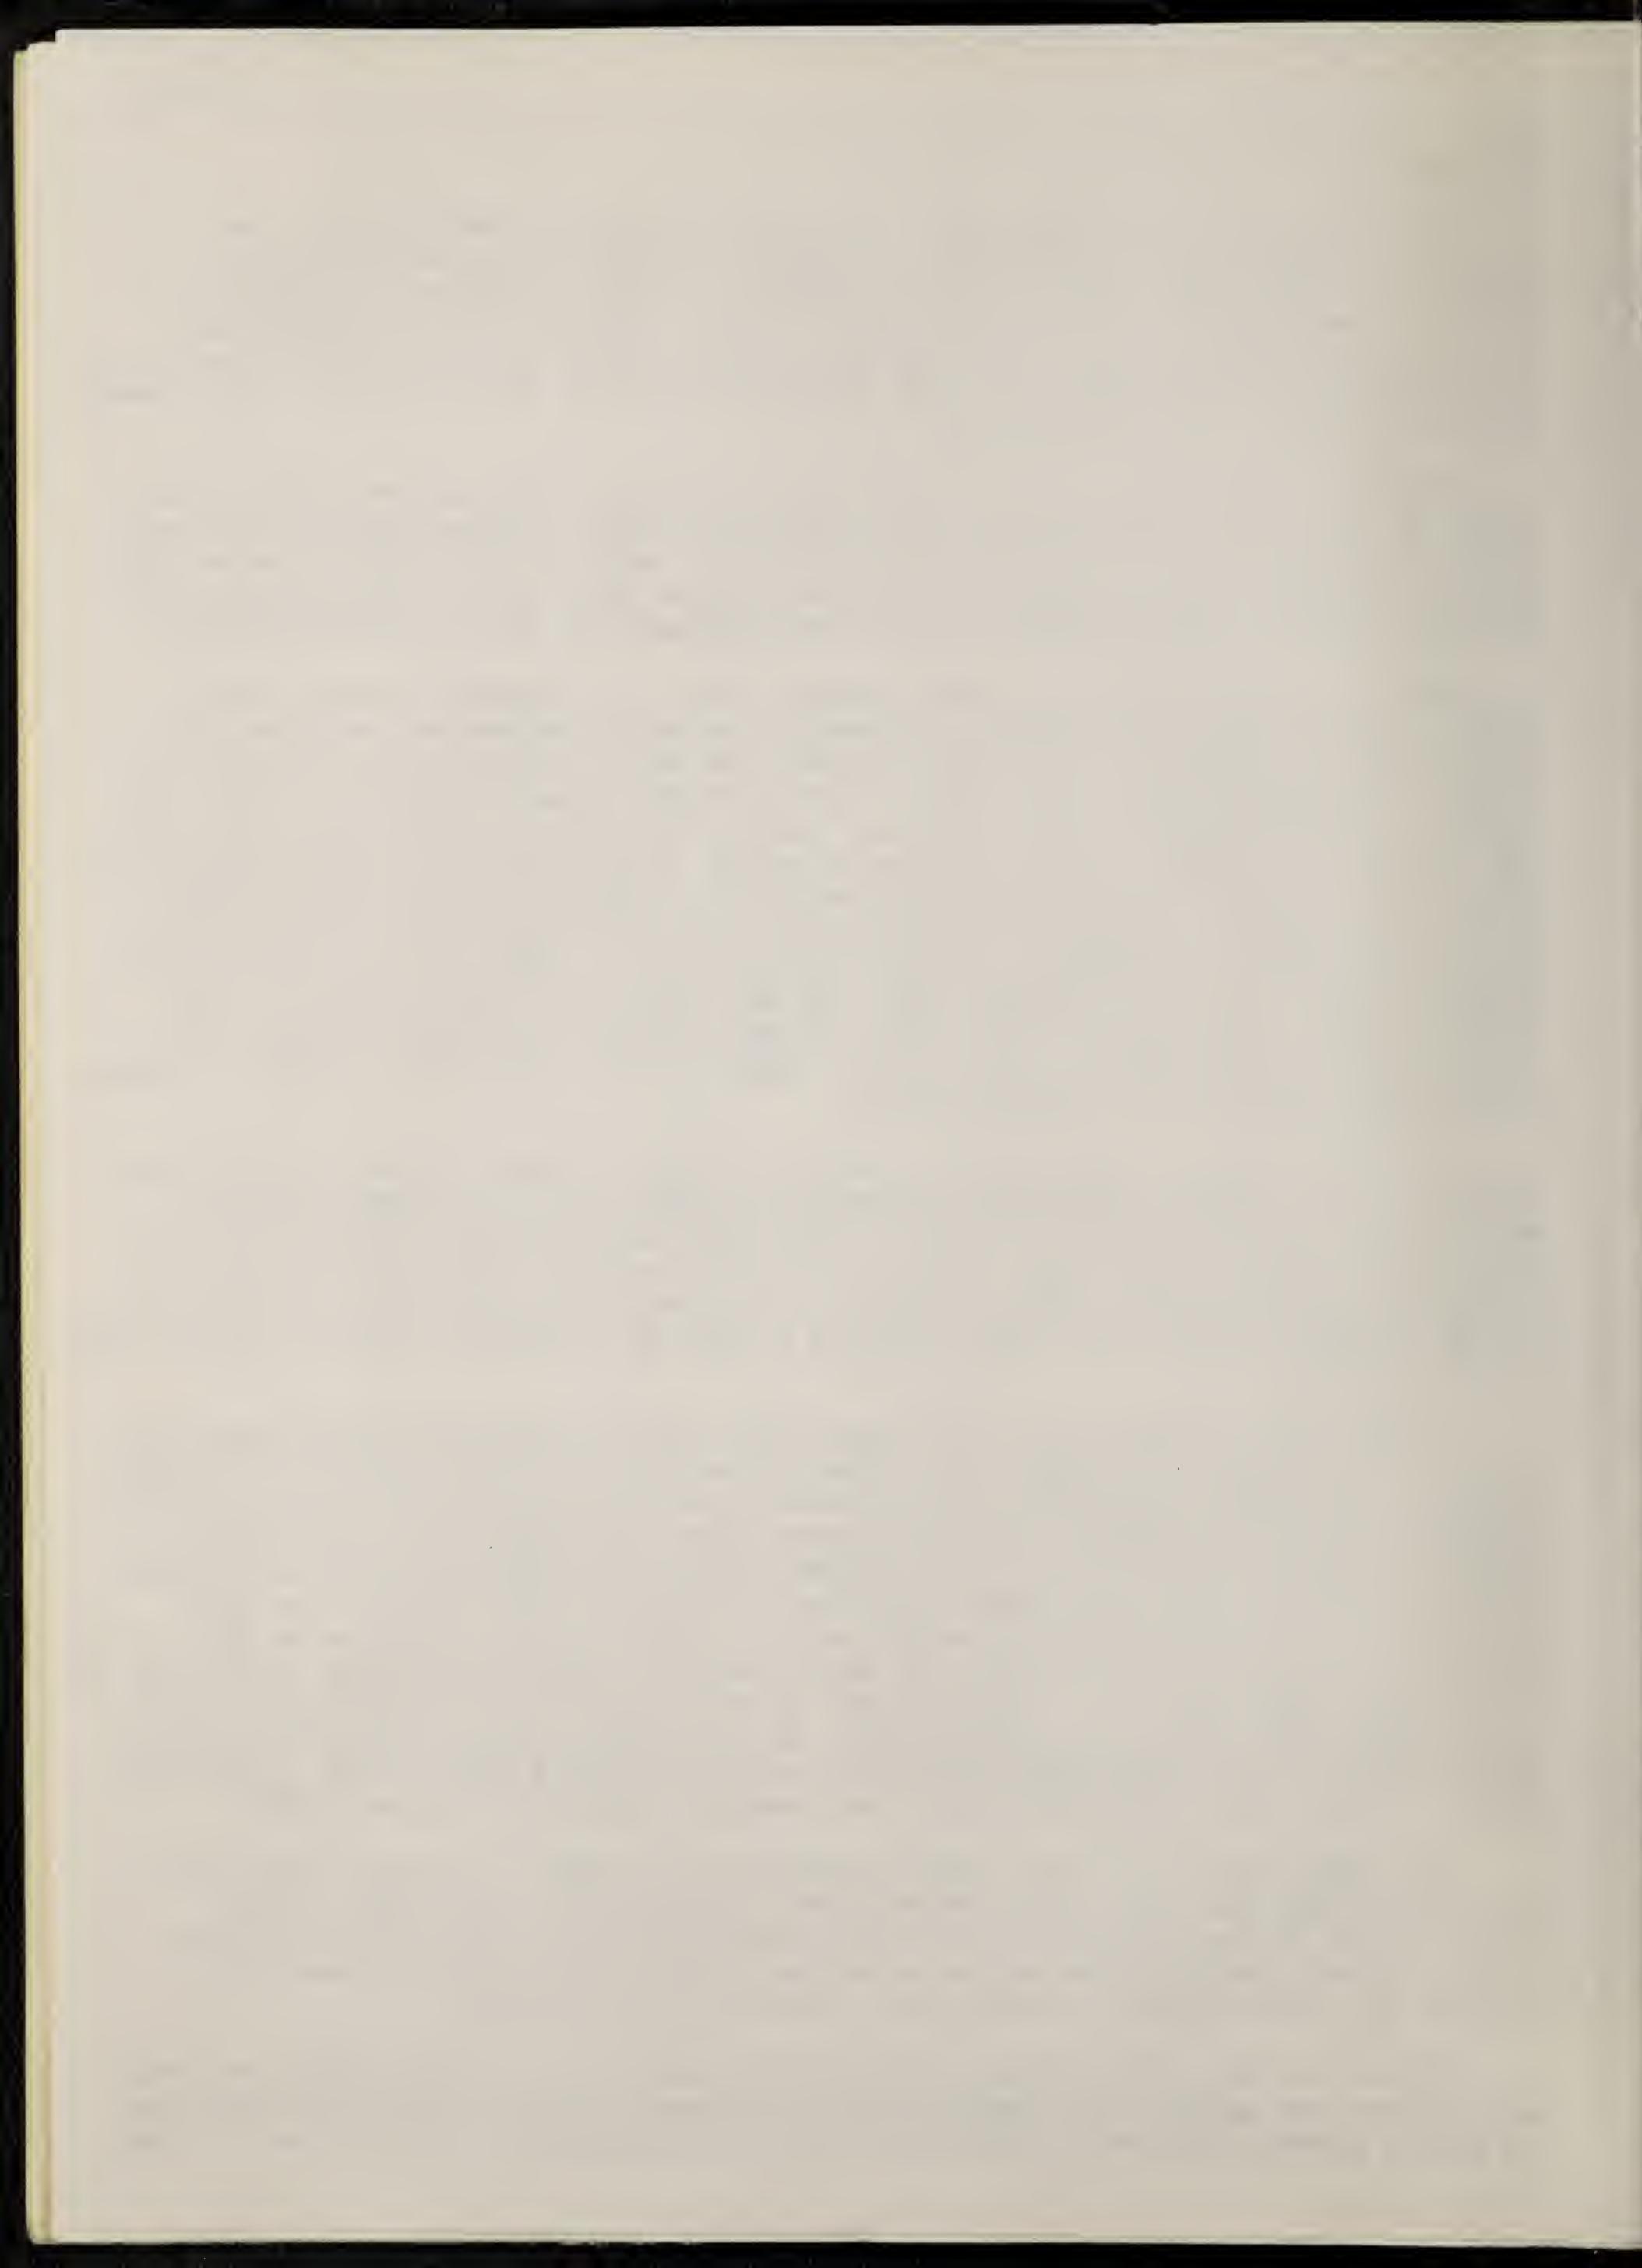

There were two townships on the Altamaha, two on the Savannah, two on the Congaree, (one Amelia opposite present Columbia) one on the Wateree across from Fort Motte, one on the Pee Dee, two on the Santee, and one on the Waccamaw. They were all quite rapidly settled up in the 1730's. The first ship load of immigrants after this arrived at Charlestown in 1732; more came the following years. They were mostly from the Palatines and other parts of Germany at first. Later the Scotch Irish predominated. Saxe Gotha township on the Congaree and Saluda Above Amelia was settled by Germans. The corner between the Saluda and Broad was later called Dutch Fork. They spread out across the Saluda to the Broad, up that rich country to within  $3\frac{1}{2}$  miles of Present Newberry Court House. Why did they stop? Was that old Smith grant of 48,000 acres (1713) located there? If not, some other of Gov. Burrington's unseated grants which were not to be disturbed "by orders of the Board of Trade. The Coate, Pearson, Jenkins, Inman people may have been located there.

There were some earlier settlers, however; Henry Sterling, a trader, obtained a grant of land on Lyons Creek below the Wateree in 1704. In 1719 Richard Heatly and wife Mary, settled in present county of Orangeburg, and their son, William, was the first white child born in that region. Heatly died and his widow later married Col. Russel. The widow of Col. Russel received a grant across the Congaree from Fort Motte on the Wateree in 1739. John Hearn received a grant of 500 acres of land in 1739, south of the Congaree River.

Probably the greatest treaty ever made with the Cherokee Indians was made about 1730 when an embassy of greater chiefs was induced to go to London, had audience with the King, made vows of faithfulness, exchanged tokens and agreed to live as brothers together. This was faithfully kept for twenty years and brought great prosperity, settlers and Indians having no line troubles. Ports were built by request of Indians for their protection against other tribes and to show their devotion to the King. They were encouraged to civilized ways, until at the time of the cession in 1755 it was noted by Wheeler in "Early Sketches of North Carolina." They raised great quantities of corn, beans, pumpkins, etc., had sixty-six towns of well built houses, besides their great town, Etowa, which was 96 miles from the fort of that name, Ninety-six, established in 1750. Fort Ninety-six was also 96 miles from Ft. Prince George, established 1754. A fort was also established for the Catawbas, called Fort Catawba, 1757.

The chief especially asked that the whites do not sell the braves "fire water" as they did not know what they were doing when they drank it. And indeed it was strong drink that started the trouble that caused the great Indian War a few years later, whereby the Cherokees and Catawbas lost all this fine country. Some young Indians got drunk and stole some horses, and were shot by whites.

Settlement of a new country is described by Henderson. It starts with the trader who follows the buffalo trail with his pack of goods to trade to who ever comes. He is pretty closely followed by cattle and horses with caretakers. As there are no land offices or courts, someone blazes out a boundary line of a claim, called "Tomahawk Rights", or he finds or clears a piece of ground and plants corn or beans, builds a house of logs, raises a crop called "corn rights". These rights hold if occupied until legal steps can be taken. A very great deal of land in the back country of the Carolinas and elsewhere was held as above for many years. Colonization by trail was for the settler to haul what he could on wagons, driving his cattle and hogs. Feed and game were plentiful. Our people have never been backward about venturing into a new country.

The first Baptist Church was organized in Charlotte in 1733. The first General Assembly (1668) was migratory in North Carolina, held at Chowan first, later New Bern, Edenville, Bath, Wilmington, Hillsboro, Charlotte. The first court was held in Rowan in 1753, shortly after the county organized, tradition of earlier docket, "Itinerant or Circuit Court."

The great wave of reformation which began probably with Wycliffe, in the fourteenth century, left parts of Europe in a great turmoil. Those in authority apparently had no regard for the right of the other man to his opinion, and when America was discovered, it began to be colonized by those with the urge for freedom and the desire for good soil. They were inclined to say, you must believe as I do and worship God as I do. Perhaps it was necessary but sometimes it was pretty hard on the individual. There were a few men like Penn, Williams, Baltimore, and Archdale who had the longer view and combined the goodness out of all, and organized and got people to work together. When William Penn became converted and saw the persecuting of his people by the Church of England, he soon began to make arrangements for their comfort. He first selected the Jerseys which was held by groups of men mostly. The Huguenots, however, held quite a large part, but Penn held no quarrel with the religion of others. The first purchase I find recorded was in 1674. In 1677 - 78 a tract was purchased by Penn, Harding and others, and Burlington was founded. Three ships arrived that winter, final grant of land from Duke of York to William Penn, 1680. The Penn syndicate purchased East Jersey of Cartaret in 1681. New Castle purchased in 1882. First legislature in 1681; and the government was fairly well established in 1683. Many people bought land from Penn in England before either had seen it, among others, John Coate. The holdings of land were larger in West Jersey than East Jersey. They had no stoves or bath tubs. In most farm houses, one large room "State Room." The best room set aside for special purposes, meetings, funerals, weddings, etc., which neither Calvinism nor Quakerism looked on marriage as a divine institution, but "it must not be interred into lightly." Nor should neglect be made to preserve records. Quakers required notice of intention to marry should be made before two Monthly Meetings (afterwards changed to one), a committee was appointed to inquire into any previous entanglements, and usually parent's consent had to be obtained.

Among Friends, men and women were separated during hours of worship. A Partition with shutters to be closed during business meetings. Music was not tolerated except by Episcopilians. Compulsory education was encouraged in 1682; curriculum included reading, writing, arithmetic, bookkeeping, English, Latin, artist and artisan ideals. Some were taught in the mystery of trades. Girls were also taught in various things. Young men sought careers in the Merchant Marine, vessel building, and shipping was implanted in the Jerseys for coast trade, whaling and West India trade. Vessels were registered in New York and Philadelphia. Captains must be brave, strong and skilled in the use of arms on account of danger from pirates. Those arriving in the colonies without funds were sold out to the highest bidder and called redemptioners. Their lot was worse than that of slaves. Position of Master and redemptioner were, however, sometimes reversed. Purchasers of land marriage with daughters of former masters sometimes turned the tide. The indentured servant was bound to learn a trade or art, became one of the family until his trade or art was accomplished, a common practice among Friends.

The death of Charles II, in 1685, was a serious blow to the cause of freedom, for James II proceeded to abrogate all rights established vice-regality. William III, however, pursued a more judicious course. And when Queen Anne came to the throne in 1702 and proclaimed liberty of conscience and allowed the right of affirmation, New Jersey became a happy place to live.

Just about the time Penn got New Jersey on a legislative basis, he began on Pennsylvania, and the first thing he did was to buy all the Indian titles and according to "Hazzards Annals" he bought every title in and contiguous to Philadelphia. He coveted no man's property without recompense. It was during the times above mentioned that my ancestors labored and suffered; Marmasuke Coate I, married Edyth Satherwaite, date of birth or marriage not known, but their son Marmaduke II was born in 1652 (and Hugh ? born in 1666 and died in 1742). Viskus' Genealogy notes Hugh Coate was a judge of Burlington County, also a member of the legislature.

Copy of Sarah Calkins letter ---

Marmaduke Coate came of an illustrious Quaker family of England. In "Bessie's sufferings of the Quakers" and John Whiting's "persecutions Exposed," we find frequent mention of Marmaduke Coate of English Notoriety, who was again and again arrested for non-compliance with the intolerable requirements of the Parish Priest. He was one of the faithful Quakers who suffered imprisonment and proscriptions during the Quaker persecutions in England for liberty of conscience. He suffered imprisonment at sundry times from 1670 to 1685, with short intermissions, in all, about 15 years. One of the longest terms on record. All these persecutions could not move him from a steadfast adherence to the right. He died about 1689 and left among other children a son Marmaduke II, who married Ann Pole, daughter of Edward and Mary Pole, originally of Wales, but later of Battleburg, near Wivel, Iscomb, Somersetshire, England. Marmaduke II was imprisoned at Colchester, the place of his father's long confinement in Somersetshire, in 1683, for attending a meeting at Gregory Stoke, three miles from Curry Revel, which latter place appears to have been his place of residence. His mother, Edith, was imprisoned at the same time. He immigrated to America and settled in Hanover township, Burlington County, New Jersey, in 1690. The house was partly of material brought from England, probably the leaden window sash and the 5 x 7 inch window panes of glass. He died December 15, 1728, age 77, an elder in the Society of Friends. He reared a family of five children, among which was William, probably a grandson. He was married to Mary Coppock, who passed ten or twelve years of her early life among the Indians. He came to Ohio in Newton Township in 1804, where his death occurred September 25, 1822.

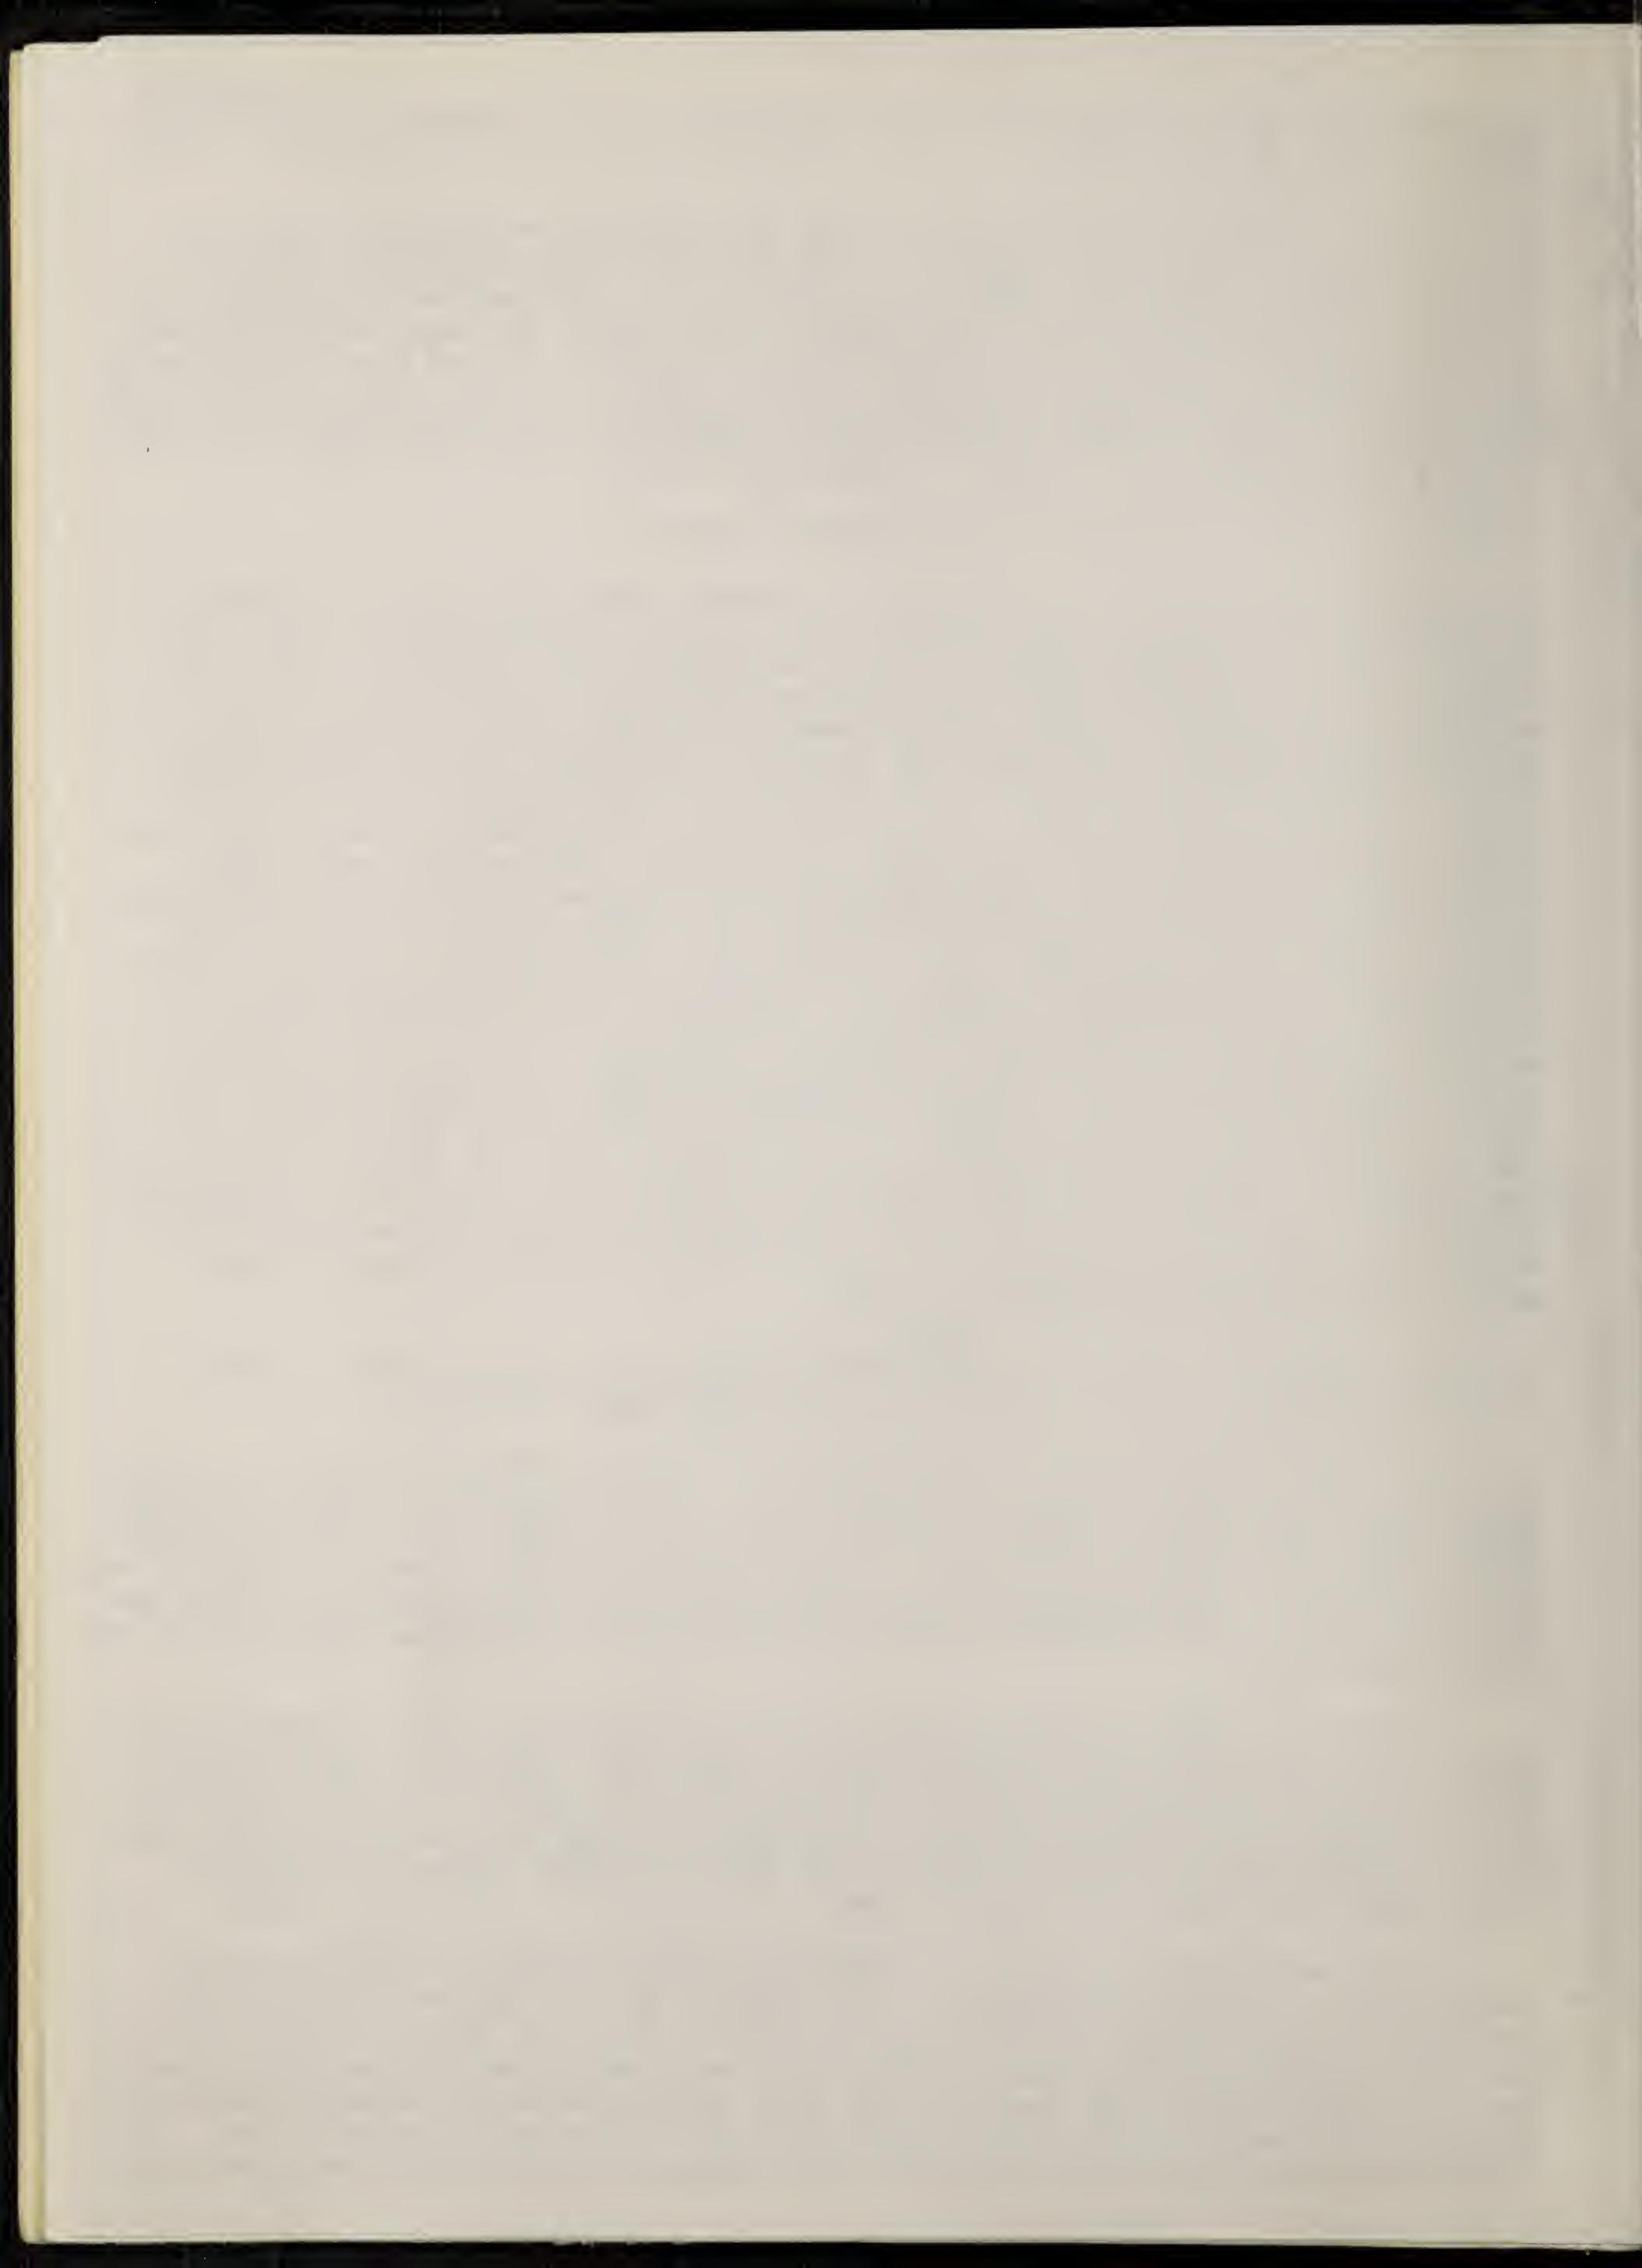

His children in order of birth: Esther, Moses, Henry, Samuel, Sarah, James, William, John and Jesse; from which have sprung numerous descendants.

Also the copy of a letter from Hiram Coate, written in 1876 to my father, Jeremiah Miles, as was the other copy, and all three are grand children of the third Marmaduke Coate. This information is copied from the family Bible, Ogden, Ohio, 3 month seventh, 1876, Dear Friend: Thine of the third of 13th is before me and I hasten to reply: I will here give date of the first member of the Coate family as I find them recorded in the old family Bible, Esther Coate born the 3rd of 9th month 1765. Moses Coate born the 5th of 9th month 1767.

Henry Coate born the 10th of 8th month 1768. Samuel Coate born the 28th of 3rd month 1772. Sarah Coate born the 11th of 12th month 1774. James Coate born the 23rd of the 6th month, 1777. John Coate born the 19th of 7th month 1785. Jesse Coate born the 3rd of last month 1789. Marmaduke, my grandfather, was born the 13th of 6th month 1733. Grandmother is not given. She died 7th month 1st 1833, supposed to be about eighty years old. Mary Coate was her name.

I have heard my father say his grandfather's name was Henry, and that he was foreign born. I think an Englishman. I have none of their deaths but father's and grandfather's and grandmother's who died the 3rd of 8th month 1861. The Coate family immigrated from Pennsylvania to South Carolina at what date I do not know. That is all I know that will aid thee any. Any other question thee may hereafter ask will be gladly answered if I can do so. Thee saying thee is the only survivor of thy father's family reminds me forcibly that all things are fast passing away, and that the places that knew us will know us not more forever. How important that we should be ready, and I can say that I do praise the Lord that I have a firm faith that I am saved and that if I am faithful to the end will be received into glory. My wife joins me in best wishes for thee and thy family,

Respectfully,

Hiram Coate.

This seems to be all the records we have as to Marmaduke's migrating to America in 1690. I again copy a letter from Office of Secretary of State, Trenton, New Jersey:

Trenton, March 14th, 1938.

Mr. S. W. Miles,
2416 Capitan Ave.,
San Diego, Calif.

Dear Sir:

Referring to your letter of March 2nd relative to Marmaduke Coate, due search has been made and nothing found to carry out your idea that there is an unfilled gap in the record.

We find no record of transfer of land either in Hanover or New Hanover Townships for the period indicated. However, this is not surprising as experience has shown that many deeds of early days failed to be recorded.

Very truly yours,

Thomas A. Mathis
Secretary of State.

In the list of first settlers in Col. Ashe's Biographies of Cape Fear, the name of William Coate does not appear; neither in a history of Wilmington, N. C., which claims to give all first settlers in that region up to 1735; neither can his name be found in the list of grants in Carolina up to 1760.

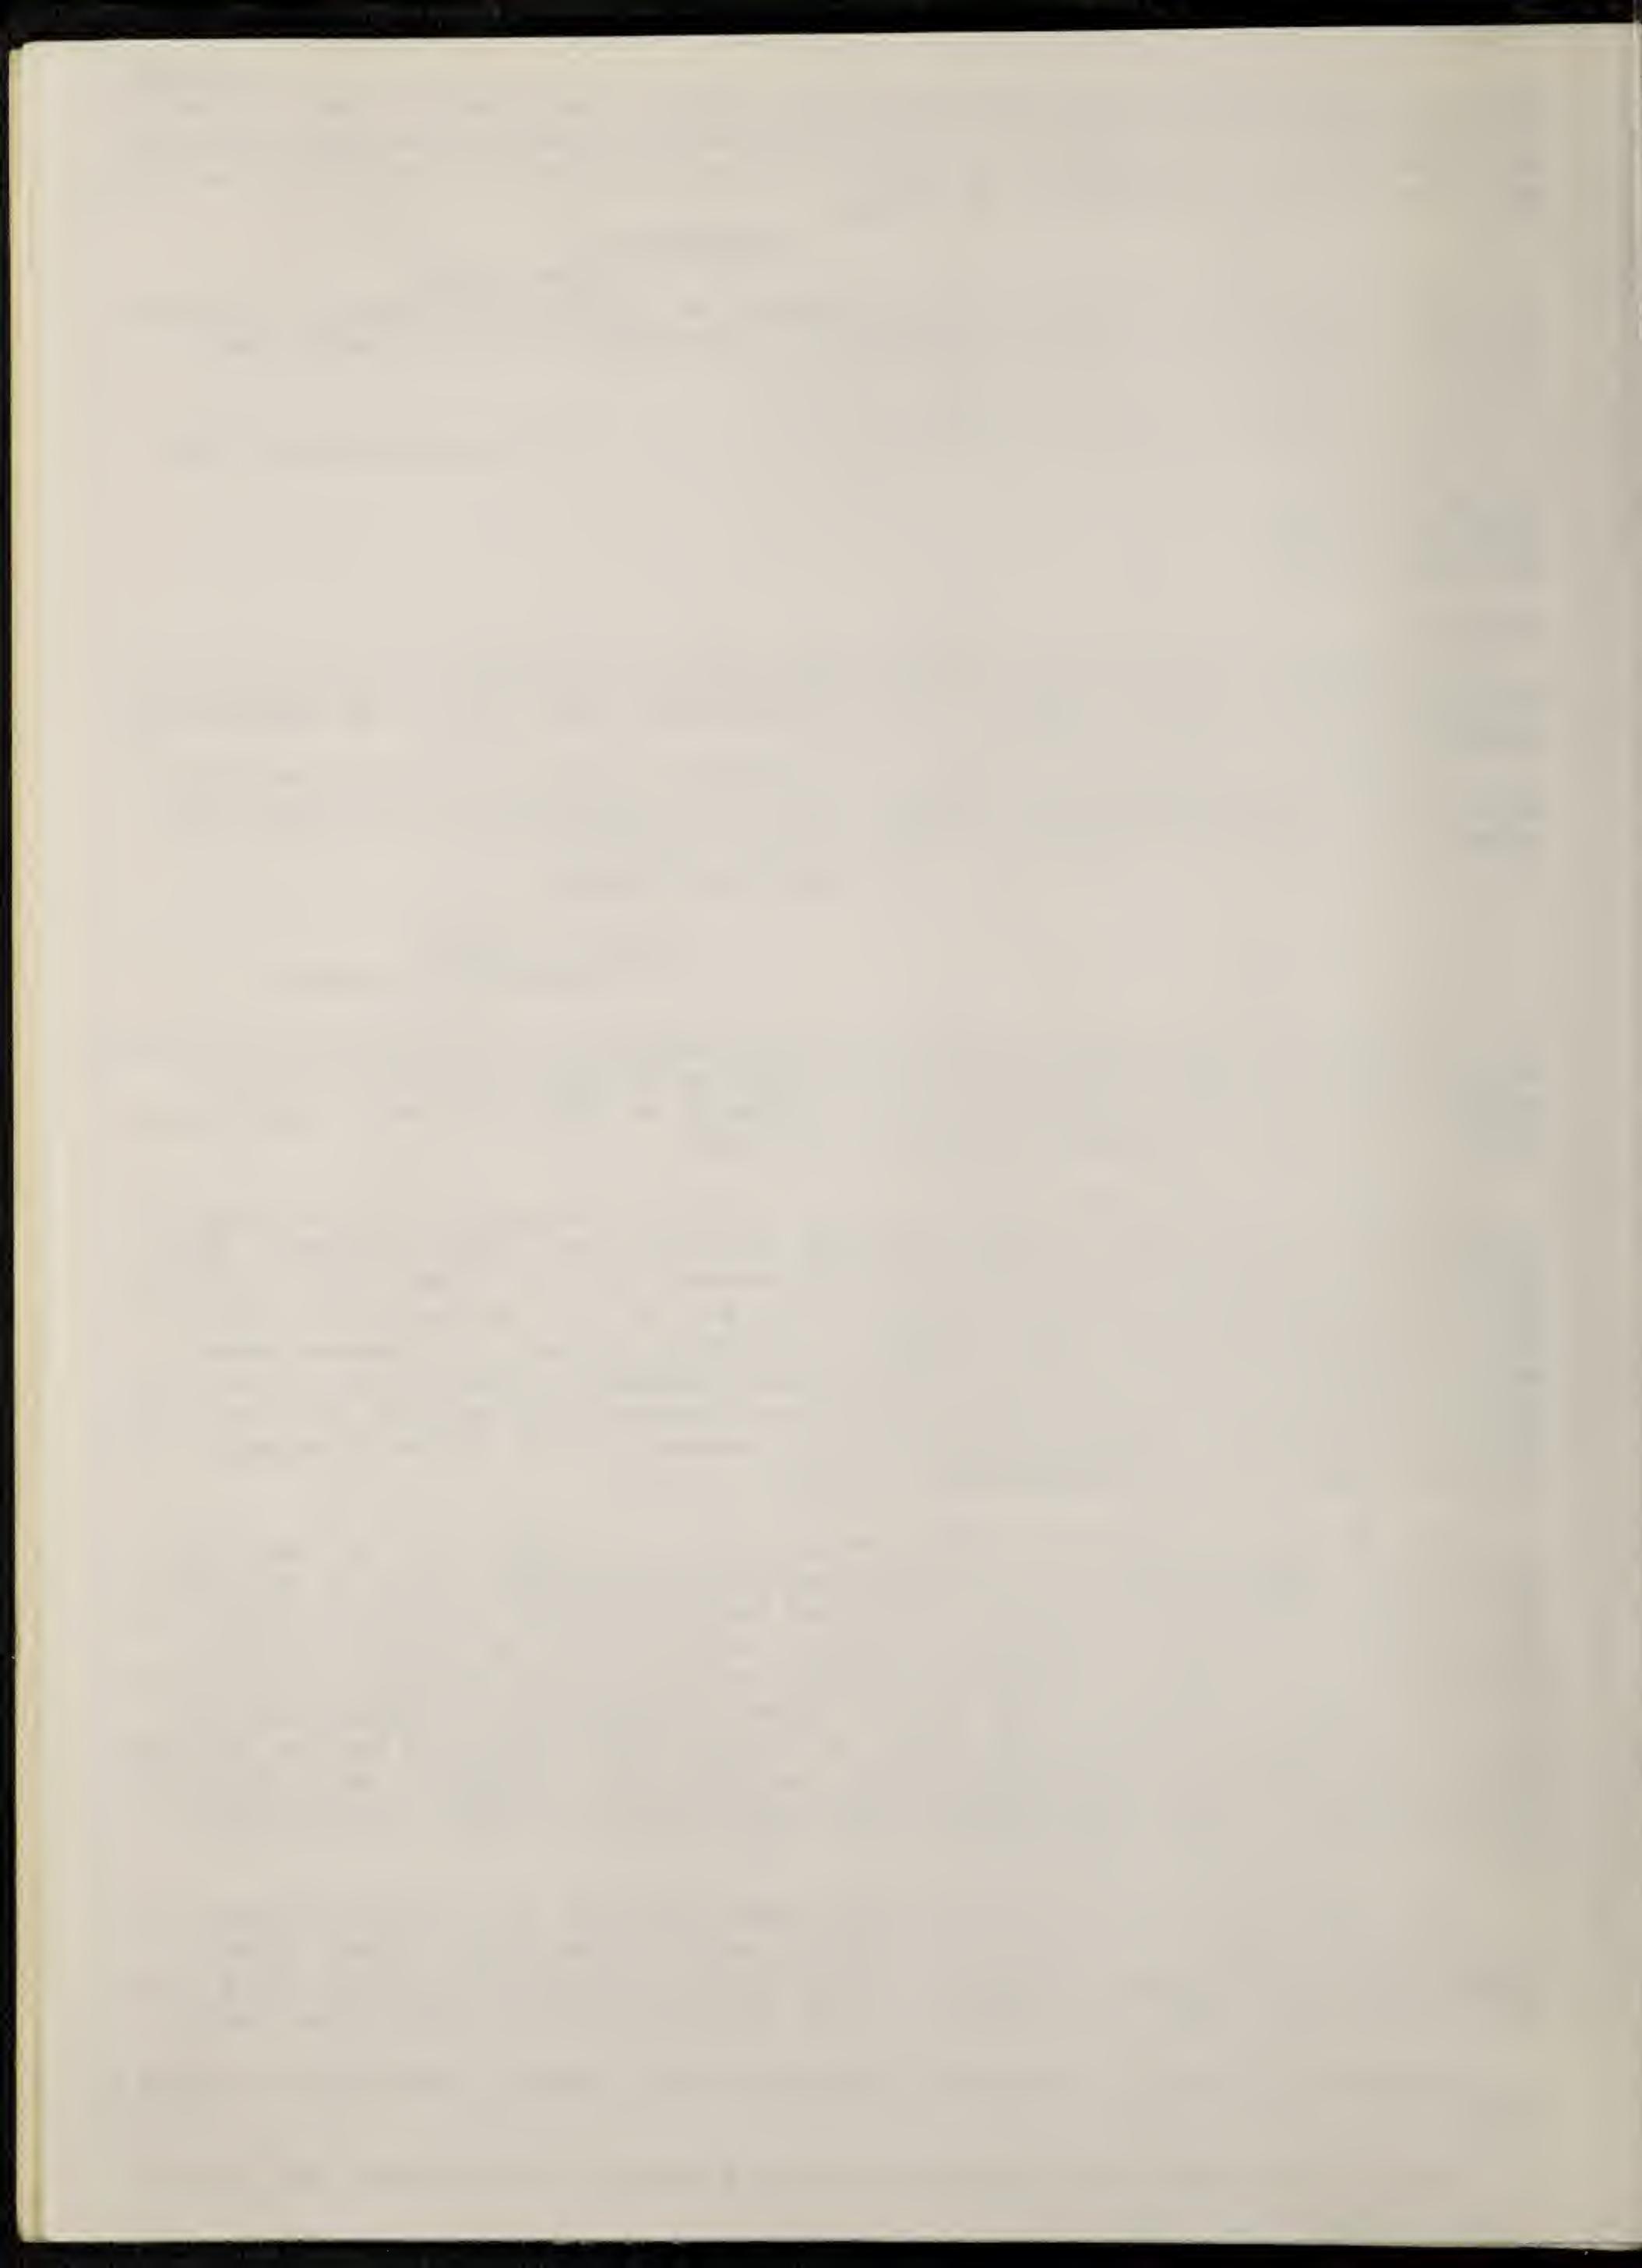

In a book of records of Wills in New Jersey by the Secretary of State, Will of Marmaduke Coate dated Nov. 6, 1728, he tells of land in New Hanover Township, Burlington, Co., also 500 acres of land near Whitemarsh, Pa. Will of Ann Coate, Wife of Marmaduke and executrix of his will, in listing her personal property she tells of £80 at the house of William Coate, House in Hambridge, England, to grandson Marmaduke. Date of will, Jan. 3, 1729. It is possible William and Rebecca did not at once go to the place in New Hanover, Carolina, where Marmaduke III was born but used by purchase or otherwise one of the numerous blank, unseated grants of Gov. Burrington in the latter part of his administration. Not correct.

Copy of record from Barclay White, Mount Holly, New Jersey: "In the year 1776, Mount Holly Monthly Meeting was set off from Burlington Monthly. Prior to that time the records of Burlington Monthly Meeting and deeds, wills etc., are in the office of the Secretary of State at Trenton, New Jersey, and they must be searched for the information. The Records of Burlington Monthly Meeting are deposited in Friends School building, corner of Sixteenth and Cherry Streets, Philadelphia. Marmaduke and Ann Pole Coate, his wife, came to New Jersey in 1714-15, from the Monthly Meeting of South Sutton, Somersetshire, England. Burlington Monthly Meeting 12/2/1714 says: "Marmaduke Coate produced a letter of introduction from Samuel Bones, of Unity with Friends of Hambridge, Somersetshire, England."

The children of Marmaduke and Ann Coate were: William, who married 2nd month 6, 1727; Rebecca, daughter of Hugh Sharpe and his wife, Rachel French Allen, widow of Mathew Allen. Second: Edith Coate who married 1724, Thomas Newbold. Third: Mary Coate who married 1719, Caleb Roper. Fourth: Hannah Coate who married 1726, Isaac Cooner.

Marmaduke Coate died 12 month 15, 1728, born 1652. Ann Pole Coate died 11 month 4, 1729.

Will of Marmaduke Coate, Yeoman of Town and Country of Burlington, New Jersey.

dated November 6, 1728. Proved March 10, 1728-29. Recorded Liber 3, Page 1. Wills, Trenton, New Jersey. To son William Coate, plantation in New Hanover to his issue, and in default of issue, to his sisters, Mary Roper, now wife of Caleb Roper; Edy, now wife of Thomas Newbold and Hannah, now wife of Isaac Cooner. He mentions land he owns in England, five or six acres with dwellings in Hambridge in the Parish of Corvial in Somersetshire to his wife Ann. Speaks of Edith Newbold and land at Whitemarsh, Pa.

Will of Ann Coate (widow of Marmaduke) dated January 3, 1729-1730. Proved November 29, 1729-30. Names grandson, Marmaduke, which establishes his birth as 1728, to whom she leaves land in England at Hambridge. Grandson Michael Newbold. Granddaughters, Ann Cooper and Lydia Cooper. Daughter-in-law Rebecca Coate. Kinsmen, Joseph Gorsh, Henry Clothier, Mary Coate; son William Coate.

William & Samuel (Mary Scandals) not true names
It definitely places Marmaduke II's residence in America as he bought land in 1714 and another parcel in 1715, and proves that William and Rebecca Coate were so far away that it took six months for the news of Marmaduke III's birth to get to them, and the next news we have of him is from Bush River Records, which say: William Coate had been living near Bush River many years prior to 1762, and that he and Marmaduke III and Henry and James Coate were all in 1760, members of Fredericksburg Monthly Meeting of Friends and all except William were disowned before 1769. (There is recorded a grant of land to William Coate in 1760.)

This page shows the mix-up between Fredericksburg records and Bush River Monthly Meetings.

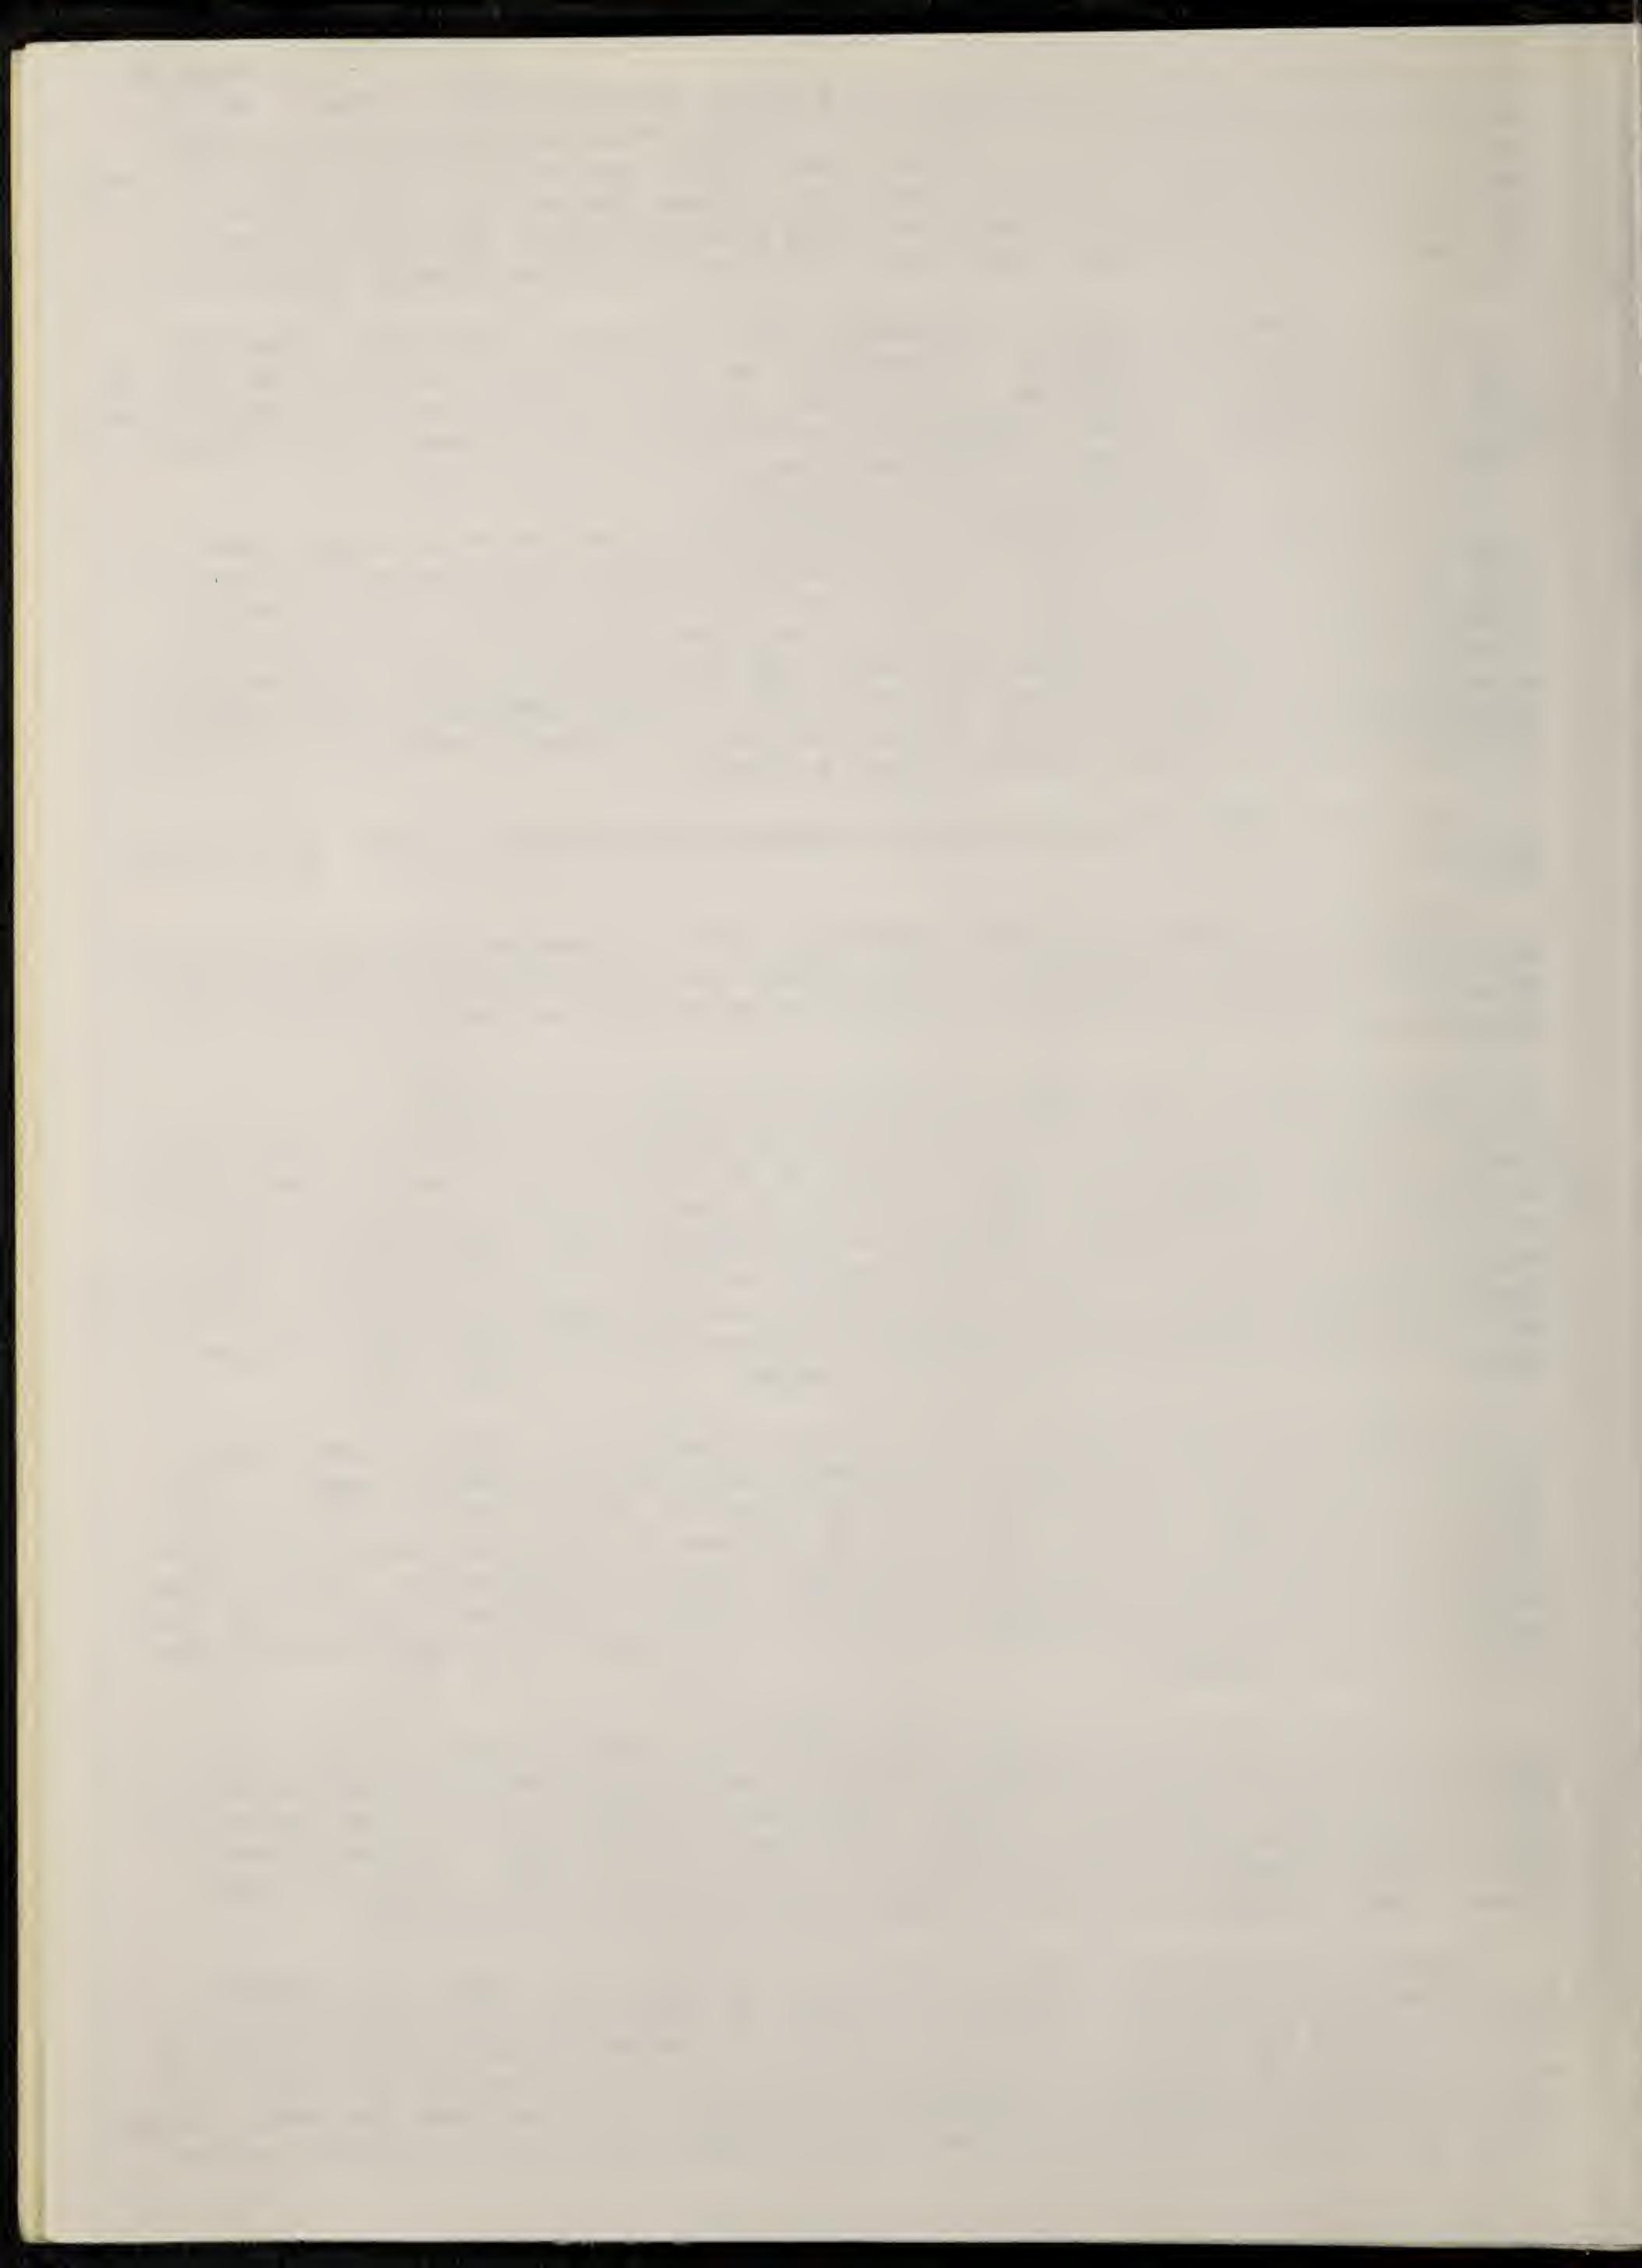

Marmaduke and James, disowned, and Mary, wife of Marmaduke, presented certificate from Fredericksburg at Bush River in 1769. Mary was received into membership but Marmaduke and James were refused on grounds of misconduct and referred back to Fredericksburg.

Henry, James and John
Henry, James and John appear to be younger brothers of Marmaduke Coate. We have no further record of Henry but James settled in Edgefield Co. John Coate was a prominent citizen of Newberry Co. He was spoken of as a blacksmith - was an expert worker in metals. His children were: Henry, Captain of Cavalry and Deputy Sheriff, who married, first, Elizabeth Long, granddaughter of William Turner, who settled at the mouth of Little River in 1752; Second marriage to sister, Lucy Long. [Rachel married Thomas Wilkinson Furnas in 1792. Mary married Samuel Pearson, son of Samuel, 1790, and transferred to Miami, Ohio, in 1803. Marmaduke married in 1816 Mary, daughter of James of Edgefield Co. Was a noteworthy surveyor. Sam of Little John]

There was an old man came to the house of Hannah Kelly, widow of Samuel Kelly, in 1719, who seemed to be somewhat (the Annals said) idiotic, but he seemed to know all about old friends and old localities. He made the remark that his father, James Jones, was the owner of this country. People doubted it until they looked up the records and found that his story was true. After sitting a while in Mrs. Kelly's house he said he believed he would step over to Billy Coates' and walked toward a door that had been closed and the steps taken away for 25 years, but it was the door that used to lead to Billy Coates'.

Our traditional record is that Elijah, settled on the Susquehanna River and that the family was killed by the Indians. Newberry Annals says Samuel was reared near Black Rock Newberry District; that his father was shot down by Tories and hacked with their swords. Bush River Records says: Elijah and Ailsey Teague, son Samuel born 3 month, 2 1759. Samuel later met and married Rebecca (4/9/1764), daughter of John Furnas. They were Married on May 8, 1783. Rebecca died on June 27, 1842.

There is another story about Elijah Teague for which the Sons of the American Revolution are responsible. "Elijah was Captain of Regulators. After their defeat at Alamance Elijah and family moved to Bush River. His enemies followed him and when no one was home but he and his wife Ailsey (Davis), caught him, hung him to a tree in his yard and riddled his body with bullets. His wife recognized them. Her sons, Joshua, Elijah and Samuel, and other relatives formed a band and set out in pursuit, and so relentless were they in their determination for justice that in a few months time the murderers had all been killed with the exception of one Ned Murchison, who escaped. The boys then joined the Patriots and served through the war. Afterwards Samuel joined the Friends and married. Rebecca Furnas, moved to Ohio in 1804. Joshua and Elijah are on the list of heads of families in South Carolina, U. S. Census of 1790.

It is not easy for people nowadays to realize the hardships of the early pioneers. Some of those old folks have told me it was all a dense forest. My great grandfather, Moses Kelly, and Mary Teague were married in 1800 in South Carolina and when the Ohio country was thrown open for settlement in 1803 they took advantage of it. Their certificate of transfer from Bush River Monthly Meeting of Friends to Little Miami, Ohio, reads - Moses Kelly and family. The family consisted of wife and two children, Samuel and Anna, and they are going out into a wilderness. Some pluck. They made a lovely home and raised eight children; two died in infancy. When Samuel was Twenty-three years old he married Mary, daughter of William Coate, and they started West with a team of horses, wagon, cow, a few chickens and such household goods as they could take, not much. They travelled to the end of the road and then uncle cut his own way for a week until he found a place that suited him where Park Co., Indiana now is and they camped beside a  $7\frac{1}{2}$  ft. poplar log until they got a log house built. They called the place Bloomingdale. It became a very prosperous Quaker Community.

My father bought into a woolen mill about a mile from uncle's residence in 1866. Uncle used to encourage me to come over and do such work as he thought me able to do, like giving me a strong steady team and putting me "astraddle" of the nigh horse and setting me to harrowing. My instructions were to lap half, that is, one horse would walk on the harrowed ground, the other on the unharrowed. When the field of wheat or oats was thoroughly gone over and crossed it was done when all the small grain was finished. The next thing was to prepare corn ground harrowed the same way. A man would follow me the last time of harrowing with a single shovel plow, marking it off  $3\frac{1}{2}$  ft. apart. When that was done, the single shovel man would cross it the same distance apart and I would follow him, walking, of course, and drop 3 or 4 grains of corn in cross, and other cousins would follow me to cover it. And those dinners - I think my Aunt Mary was the "mightiest" cook I ever knew if good, well-cooked food and an abundance of it is a good criterion. Pot pies, apple dumplings, two or three kinds of pie on the table every meal. Yum, Yum. They had a big sugar orchard, over 100 trees, 2 ft. to 4 ft. through. In sugar making time in the early spring sap would be collected every morning, using a team of horses hitched to a big sled. It was hauled to the boilers, which were going night and day, and boiled down to the consistency required. It takes much more boiling for sugar than syrup. Aunt had lots of little pans about two inches across she used to fill with hot sugar, which made nice little cakes for gifts. Then at night when it was cold, they had a habit of sitting in a semi-circle around the big fire-place and listening to uncle tell stories. Plenty of apples and cider were used. There was one story of killing the turkey. He got up one morning and of 40 or 50 yards was a big, fat gobbler. For some reason his gun failed to go off. He called, "Mary, get a coal of fire. (He always kept fire covered in the fire-place.) And when I say 'ready' touch the coal to the pan. We got the turkey." he concluded.

Another of the older generation was my grandfather, Samuel (?) Miles, who married Anna, sister of Uncle Samuel Kelly. He was rather taciturn, hard to get to talk. Came as near being a horse jockey as Quakerism would allow. Used to come riding a new horse home and then mother must ride him. She was considered the most expert girl rider in the settlement. And she had a way with us children which brought obedience without punishment. A noteworthy nephew of grandfather Samuel was John D. Miles, farmer and trader, who made and lost a fortune in the Chicago grain pit. Twenty years in the Indian service. I copy a letter from him:

Dear Coz:

Thy letter of 11th inst., just recd. I am always glad to hear from relatives but I have been on the frontier so long that I have lost track of many of them. I remembered well of going to school to thy Father and since thy letter reached me I have been trying to think up the old Miles families as we knew them in Ohio. My father (David) moved from Ohio to Wabash, Indiana in 1852 and was killed by a fall from a railroad bridge while attending the Yearly Meeting at Richmond, Indiana in 1854. There was left with Mother (Susanna) four (4) brothers, Daniel, John, Lewis and Benajah, and one half brother, Henry. All of whom are dead but Daniel and myself. Daniel lives at Wichita, Kansas with his son Oscar. Daniel is now 84 years old and I in my 82nd year. I was in business in Wabash, Indiana from 1857 to 1869, when I was appointed Indian Agent by President Grant and was in the Indian service for twenty years, during which time I was sent to Old Mexico by the Govt. as Special Commissioner to treat with the Mexican Kickapoo Indians, who were raiding on Texas frontier. This was in 1871. In 1877 I was sent as Special Commr. to the Ute Indians in Colorado who were fighting the white settlers. In 1889 as atty. for the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indians in Indian Territory, I succeeded in making a treaty with these Indians comprising over eleven million acres of land, now the west half of Oklahoma. Was the first Govt. officer to report Indian Territory as an Agricultural country. Was appointed the first World's Fair Commissioner to Chicago to represent Oklahoma as a Territory. When I first went to Indian Territory it was occupied by Hostile Indians, buffalo, wolves and wild turkeys and I remained with it until it was a wheat field and corn and cotton in abundance. And when I look back to that service with its hardships and dangers, I recognize the fact that every quarter section in that vast domain of agricultural land put at least one grey hair in my head. When I first went to that country the Indians gave me the name of "To-sa-me- its" (Black Beard), but before I left they changed it to "Wah-pa-me-its" or White Beard. After leaving the Govt. Service we settled at Lawrence, Kansas, where we remained until five years ago we came to Texas and bought this 500 acre Farm and Ranch - 200 acres under cultivation. My wife, Margaret, and I are alone. We left Kansas on account of the severe winters which gave me Grippe. We have had perfect health here. We have six (6) children living (one boy, John, Jr., died when 13 years old). The living are Mrs Lena M. March, wife of W. F. March, banker at Lawrence, Kansas. They have two children, Mrs. Josephine M. Woodward, Atlanta, Ga., wife of O. J. Woodward. They have two children (boys), Ralph and Donald. Susan M. Kinny (widow), Cincinnati, Ohio. She has two daughters, Ruth and Helen. Eva I. M. Poehler (widow). Herbert G. Miles, Fresno, California; married, no children. One daughter, Josephine, has been with the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette and served Murat Halstead (the editor) as War Correspondent during the Cuban War and has been society editor of that paper for 25 years until her health broke down. Our youngest daughter, Eva, lost her husband and little girls 8 ten years ago. Since that time she has been in the East; first two years at Paris, France, studing the French language, then two years at Munich, Germany, studying the German language, and she is now in Rome, Italy, studying the Italian language. Her letters to us at home are full of interest as she is now giving us so much of the Roman history of the Apostle Paul. I am Sincerely, Thy Coz. - Jno. D. Miles

My Family's pioneering:

In 1854 the urge for new land sent the family to Iowa, Mother and six weeks old Elizabeth riding in the carriage. They sold the farm in Miami Co., Ohio, investing in some land in Blairstown, Iowa, and bought a farm in LeGrand and nearby a stone quarry. They afterwards sold the Blairstown property, also later, the stone quarry. The purchasers of the latter developed a marble quarry. It is now known as Quarry. I was born at LaGrand, May 1, 1858. The Pottawatamie Indians were all around and about, a very friendly tribe. The Chief used to be especially fond of us children and brought presents of game to my mother and they thought I was wonderful little papoose. One Chief wore silver bells in his ears and used to like to have little Elizabeth sit on his knee. He would shake his head to make the bells tinkle to amuse her. She was a little afraid at first but Mother told her he was good so she got used to it. One of the braves did something that aroused the Chief's anger and to punish him he took him in the corn field on a hot day and "spread-eagled" him, tying hands stretched out, also his feet, and left him there for 24 hours. Father remonstrated with the Chief. "Um, him bad Indian, better die", he said. The Squaws used to come often to bake biscuits in Mother's oven. They would spread their blankets in the yard. Father would get out a sack of flour, from which the Chief would pour a portion on each blanket. With quick motions the squaws would soon have dough mixed and patted into little biscuits and put into Mother's pans to bake. The squaws would then rub the dough from their blankets and put them on as usual. From LeGrand father went in 1861 to Bangor, still in the same County, Marshall, where he had a cabinet shop to supplement the farm. The family still possess a round pedestal table and a writing table, some small turned articles, "Pin cushion stands" made by father.

In the Spring of 1866 he sold out and moved to Bloomingdale, Indiana, buying into a woolen mill near Uncle Samuel Kelly's place, which was not a success. After two years the partners sold the mill and father moved back to Miami Co., Ohio, in 1868 and bought mostly on time, a saw and grist mill. We had much sickness which was responsible, mostly for the failure. In 1870 father borrowed $300 of his brothers to move to Kansas and take homesteads 9 miles north of Clay Center, Clay County. We started July 26, stopped a few days at grandfather's place near Richmond, Indiana, arrived at Manhattan, 40 miles from Clay Center, (no railroad there) August 5th at 5 P.M. Brother Enos was supposed to meet us but as he was not there we started to walk and met him on the road we were directed to take. We had some lunch left and slept beside a haystack. Starting out bright and early next morning into one of Kansas' hottest days, across unsettled country, not a house in sight, no water, no shade, not a team after 10 o'clock. About 4 P.M. we came across a carpenter building a house. He had some cold tea. It tasted mighty good. About that time a shower came up and we caught water on our hat brims, which also was good. Shortly thereafter we came to a settler, had a good supper, slept there and next morning he took us on with his team and wagon to the place we were to call home for 18 years. East of us was limestone country, barren, but where we were was a sandstone formation with occasional mounds, and some springs on rolling prairie cut with ravines. There was not a single tree in sight and we could see for miles in any direction. Our country was productive only when it dried out in the southwest and then hot winds blew and cut our crops short. The rains seemed to follow that sand belt. From the mound about three miles from my brother's camp where we first came in sight of it, there was only the roof of one house and three small tents in sight. One of them was that of my brother and his partners. There were a great many dug-outs when you came to go over the country, however. People all built them. You dig into the bank of a ravine the size you want your room, roof it with poles, put brush crossways, then coarse grass, then pack clay on that. There was some timber on creeks and the Republican River and coarse grass in the bottom of the ravines. One ran into these dug-outs before he knew it in going across country and they were warm in winter and cool in summer. We built our house of sods freshly broken up, laying them like masonry, roofed with poles, brush and coarse grass, which did not turn water, but we had an exceptionally fine winter and got along. One night we were awakened by an unearthly noise, and on going out to investigate, found a drove of cattle horning into the corner of the house and bellowing. Our sod house was not as warm as the dug-outs and it leaked more. Enos was a fine mechanic, so went to our old neighborhood in Iowa to get work to support the family, but the first money he sent was stolen. We had to live on potatoes and cracked wheat ground on an iron hand mill father bought when we first arrived. (They charged one third for toll to grind at the mill and it was a long way off.) Seven years later we received a check from the government replacing the amount stolen. The postmaster had been discovered in his nefarious schemes. In the meantime the few dollars we had left had to be carefully invested, hence the potatoes and wheat.

Father was a good gardener and raised "garden sass" as soon as possible. Our team was a yoke of slow moving stags. It took from sunrise to dark to make the trip to Clay Center for supplies. Enos had been out the summer of 1870, went into partnership with two other men to get a break team, bought three yoke of cattle. It took two yoke to run the break plow, while another lighter yoke was used with hind wheels of the wagon for running for supplies, getting plow shares sharpened, etc. In the divide up between the partners we got the heavy stags, wagon and break plow. We bought some chickens in the spring, a dozen, and it was my duty to care for them. Father and Joseph did what breaking the stags would stand on a grass diet. We had sewed about five acres in wheat in the fall. The rest of the ground, about 8 or 10 $\frac{1}{2}$  acres, was planted to corn and truck in the spring. They broke hedge rows, strips 14 feet wide, on section lines set back 25 feet for roads, which was the rule there.

Joseph went to the Blue River with neighbors and gathered maple seeds and father got Osage orange seeds for hedges and planted them in the season and we raised plenty of hedge plants and about 20,000 young maples. We traded 17,000 of the latter for a horse and had all we wanted to set out at home. Father got lots of various kinds of seeds, apple, peach, plum, got walnuts on the creek, transplanted wild plum, grapes, so there was lots of stuff growing in a few years as father was always interested in gardening, horticulture, budding and grafting, etc. In due season Father cradled the wheat, at which he was as adept as a young man. It was a good crop so we had plenty of flour and seed for the next year. We raised a good crop of corn but no market. We managed to sell 200 bushels to a cattle feeder for 8 cents a bushel. We used corn for fuel that winter.

The country got busy and voted $175,000 bonds and gave it to the Kansas Pacific Railroad to build a railroad from Junction City to Clay Center. It was completed in 1872-3. The same election put father in for County Commissioner and he became Chairman of the Board and after that always held a position of trust as long as he lived there. Enos came home in January, 1872. He brought a second-hand reaper and mower for which he had traded and we bought a team of horses. Enos used the horses to put in a crop and afterwards to haul lumber 35 miles to build a house. He cut our grain crop, also cut for the neighbors, as well as mowing their hay for them. Joseph and I put in our time that summer breaking prairie with the stags. That fall we started building a house, sold the stags and bought another team of horses.

Enos married the last of December 1872, ran a blacksmith shop that summer. Joseph and I farmed. We raised a big crop. 1874 started fine but in July came grasshoppers. Horrors! They ate all the corn up. Small grain was in shock. After the grasshopper year, as we always called it, we had good, average crops generally, some freeze-outs, blow-outs, hail, dry-outs, etc., but we put more land in cultivation and worked harder, consequently, especially myself, got used up by the heat and sought a more even climate. Came to Oregon in 1888 and farmed for several years. Raised Poland China hogs. Bought a farm on time, failed, health as well as money, spent five years resting in the mountains, came to California in 1920. Father and Joseph came to Oregon in 1890 and bought a farm near Turner, Marion Co.

We only have at present Monthly Meeting records back to 1771 for the Miles family, but traditional information from various sources is that Nathan Miles came to America with William Penn and bought land near Philadelphia; that he had a son, Benjamin, who stayed in England, but later, probably 1735-1740, came to America with his three sons, Jonas, Thomas and William (b. 1725-d. 1789); that Jonas located at Little Britain in Lancaster Co.; That Thomas Operated ships; that William was apprenticed to a trade in Philadelphia and afterwards, on completing his apprenticeship, made a trip to Europe and elsewhere on his brother's ships and met and married Catherine, a native of Switzerland about 1749, of whom were born Samuel, 1750, David 1753, William 1755; that they came from Willshire, England, and moved to South Carolina in 1769.

Compendium of American Genealogy by Viskus says: William Godard married (no date) Elizabeth, daughter of Benjamin Miles (d. 1697). (Refer back to page ).

Thomas Miles had three ships, did most of their work in convoy for protection, sometimes as privateers. David was with his uncle at times before William and Catherine moved to South Carolina. When Thomas died it was David who received notice there was an estate ready for him but he must apply personally. David's wife was not willing he should go on account of danger from pirates. The estate was afterwards advertized. We saw the advertisement in the 1870's. It said Thomas Miles, and several others mentioned, mariners, who all died at sea many years ago. Send five dollars to an address mentioned for the particular one you want and we will send further information. We sent it. In course of time the reply came, "We have called at the address given and find the firm has long gone out of business nor can any trace of them be found", so that ended that.

There was also the story of another legacy by which Jonas and William received at stated times a sum of money. It ceased with the Revolution. The Miles concluded to investigate. They found that when William Miles I died in 1789 his oldest son Samuel settled the estate in South Carolina and retained papers, documents, etc., which James M. O'Neal, a grandson of Samuel and Mary, considered sufficient for a trial of the case. The Miles made him manager, he employed the firm of Phelps, Lidghink and Biddel of 18 Gersham Street, London, E. C., and sent them documents, etc. In due time a report came back of inability to locate the estate and advising against any further search on account of the lapse of time and inability to prove if found. O'Neal also had documents which showed the Miles family going back two generations to one Nathan Miles who came over with William Penn. He had a son Benjamin who was the father of Thomas, Jonas and William, in order named, and neither Nathan, Benjamin nor William's names are found as owners of land in Pennsylvania. It is quite possible the shipping business may have been older than Father thought.

It seems the Coates are also embued with the idea of a legacy. My father remembered playing before the fire-place when a small boy, not supposed to notice elder's actions or conversation very much. His grandfather, Moses Coate, had lying on his lap a good-sized document which he was discussing with his daughter, Jane. Some neighbor had reported being in a city where building was rapidly approaching certain land, and that it would not be long unto buildings would cover this land. Grandfather and mother then talked of money the land would be worth; that sometime far ahead people who lived on the land would think it belonged to them. Finally they spoke of the harm such an amount of money would do their children. Grandfather Moses then arose, saying, "I think we will let it lie there," and laid the document on the glowing coals. Father said it was generally known that Marmaduke Coate at the age of 88 years had made a trip to Philadelphia and executed a lease on a large body of land for 99 years. He died in 1822, aged 94, which would put the lease in 1816. When the time of that lease was about to expire, heirs got awfully worked up and spent much time and money, and there were all sorts of stories and efforts to make money out of it by means of collecting a small fee per month from each heir.

Naturally, in that case, the more heirs the better. The most prominent party in this latter work claimed to have dug up all the proof needed and even claimed possession of the original lease; Claimed the land had been traded for from John Roose, a Cherokee Indian Chief, who had married Martha Coppock, a sister of Mary Coppock, whose husband, Marmaduke Coate III had made the lease. Hazard's Annals says William Penn purchased all Indian titled land in and contiguous to Philadelphia. While I do not doubt the change of ownership to the Coate family nor the existence of a lease in the first place, procedure has been so fumbled since 1915 that title to the land is now lost by lapse of time. Samuel W. Miles, 4382 Felton St., San Diego, Calif.

MILES GENEALOGY

Early Welsh Miles (The New England ancestry was Myles)- Philadelphia records - Samuel and James Miles from the Monthly Meeting "in the parish of Llanhangell Holygen" Radnorshire, Wales, certificate dated 5-27-1683. Came on the ship Welcome with Wm. Penn. Richard Miles was one of the Welsh Purchasers of land from R. Davis in Wales in 1682. He was a resident of Radnorshire and probably emigrated soon after and located his land in Radnor township. He married 4-28-1688, Sarah, dt. of John Evans of Radnor. Their children were Richard, James, Evan, Jane, Sarah and Abigail. Richard the elder d. 1713. Richard, Jr., m. Phoebe 1721 (?). Their children were: Sarah, 1722; Joseph, 1725; Mary, 1727; Ruth, 1731; and Esther, 1734.

Samuel and Margaret Miles Children: Tamer, 1687; Phoebe, 1690; Ruth, 1693. Tamer M. Thomas, S., of Wm. Thomas of Tadnor. Phoebe M. Evans, S. of Owen Evans of Gwyned M.M. (near Radnor).

A Col. Samuel Miles served in the Revolutionary War, was promoted to Brig. Gen., M. Potts, was Judge Court of Appeals, also Mayor of Philadelphia, died 1813. He was descended from one of the above Welsh Miles.

Nathan Miles came to America with William Penn. He had a son, Benjamin, who stayed in Wiltshire, England. Virkus compendium of American Genealogy says: "William Godard married (No date) Elizabeth, dau. Benjamin Miles (d. 1697)." Benjamin, son of Nathan, had three sons: 1-Jonas; 2-Thomas; 3-William (b. 1725 d. 1789). Jonas and William came to America about 1740. Thomas stayed to manage the shipping interests, died in the 1790's at sea. Jonas and descendants are located by wills, deeds, etc., in Lancaster and York Counties. William was apprenticed to a trade in Philadelphia, married 1749 Catherine _____. He followed his trade until 1769, when he moved to South Caroline, lived and died at Rocky Springs. His son, Samuel, settled his estate in 1790.

No mention is made in Bush River records of Catherine, wife of William. Our tradition says: William & Catherine and sons, Samuel, David & William, moved just before the Revolutionary War to South Carolina.

The John Miles above may have been no relation of Samuel, David and William, but there is ground for believing that he was a younger brother of them. In the 1790 census, John is head of a family of two males, two females and two slaves, and was a member of Bush River Meeting. If so, William's rec. r. q. would automatically admit John, being under age at that time. Else, why should he be listed where he is? Samuel Miles' record, birth, marriage and births and marriages of his daughters, are the only early Miles records that are complete. All of the others we have to fall back on old Bible records for, and even occasionally traditions.

COATE GENEALOGY - (Original Cote)

Not to be confused with Coates whose ancestors came from Carlow County, Ireland. They purchased large holdings at present Coatesville. Others settled early in N. E. part of North Carolina, Perquimans County, etc..

Marmaduke I of Summersetshire, England, date of birth not known, died 1689. He suffered persecution for about 15 years in the 1670's and 1680's. Marriage date not known - Edith(?) Satherwaite.

1. Marmaduke II (1652, 12-16-1728) m. 1701 (?) Ann, dt. of Edward and Mary Pole of Wales
2. (?) Hugh (1666, 1742) Judge of Burlington County (Virkus) and also a member of the legislature.

CHILDREN OF MARMADUKE II & ANN POLE COATE

1. William (1702) (Virkus) m. 2-6-1727 Rebecca, dt. of Hugh and Rachel Sharp
2. Edith m. 4-1-1724 Thomas Newbold - 2 sons, Michael and Caleb

4. Hannah m. 3-2-1726 Isaac Cooper - 2 daughters, Ann and Lydia m. 2nd 1-6-1752 Wm. West

William and Rebecca settled in New Hanover precinct, County of Clarenden, Province of North Carolina, in 1727. Their sons:

1. Marmaduke III (6-13-1728, 9-15-1822) m. 1760-64 in South Carolina Mary Coppock, who died 1833. No trace of her parentage has ever been found. Mary was a captive of the Indians, Cherokees, and was adopted into the tribe. Her elder sister, Martha, having married John Roose, a half-breed and chief of the Tribe, Marmaduke must conform to the tribal rules and purchase his bride, and marry by the Indian ceremony. This may have been the cause of Marmaduke's disownment, but they evidently conformed to Quaker requirements later.
2. (?) John (1729, 1803). Disowned 1789. John Coate was a prominent citizen of Newberry Co. He was spoken of as a blacksmith - was an expert worker in metals.

From Annals of Newberry by O'Neal - Newberry was founded in 1752, at which time John Coate, "blacksmith", was owner of the site and gave two acres for Court House site. William Coate lived on land adjoining.

CHILDREN OF JOHN COATE

KELLY HISTORY & GENEALOGY

The O'Ceallaigh (Eng. O'Kelly) were Kings of Leinster in the 7th and 8th centuries. (Irish Ped. O'Hart).

There were Kellys at Philadelphia before 1700. In Chester Co., Pa., William Kelly married Merianda von Bughart 9-7-1697.

John and Elizabeth Kelly were near Wilmington, N. C., previous to 1735.

Thimothy Kelly is first mentioned in the History of Camden in 1747 as living on the west side of the Wateree River. Timothy Kelly, Samuel and John Millhouse, were appointed trustees by the Monthly Meeting of Friends where Camden now is, to secure title to land for the meeting house and burying ground. A lease was secured for nine hundred and ninety nine years for a rental of one peppercorn a year if demanded. Date of lease, 9-6-1759. There is a record of a land grant to Timothy on Sawneys Creek near Camden in 1754. He died in 1776.

John Kelly came to Camden with his father (probably Timothy) from Kings County, Ireland, about 1747. His brother Samuel came about the same time.

EVANS GENEALOGY

The Radnorsville Monthly Meeting, Pa., was mostly made up of Welsh settlers. There we find Sarah Evans, dau. of John, married Richard Miles in 1688. An Evans, son of Owen Evans of Gwinned married Phoebe Miles, dau. of Samuel and Margaret.

John Evans (born 1678) was Deputy Governor of Pennsylvania 1704-9.

Oliver Evans (1755-1819), an inventor of flour milling machinery, was born in Delaware and moved to Philadelphia in 1790, where he had an important engine building works.

In the "History of Wilmington Previous to 1735" John and Rebecca Evans are listed as early settlers in that district. Robert Evans of Nansemond, Va., who married Elizabeth Jessop, was received at Perquimans Monthly Meeting, N. C., 5-51749. He died in 1797 at Suttons Creek, N. C. There were a number of Evans in those localities.

A John Evans was a member of the first garrison of Ft. Moore, Berkeley Co., S. C.

Bush River Meeting received Benjamin Evans 11-30-1799 and his children Thomas, David and Elizabeth 4-30-1803. He was the inventor of the screw auger. Hannah Evans was received 5-12-1800 from Cane Creek, N. C. Joseph Evans was an early settler arriving at Camden in 1752. Mary Evans (1735, 1782) and Robert Evans (1740 (?), 1784), who were also in Camden, were probably children of Joseph.

PEARSON (PIERSON) GENEALOGY

Pearson (Swedish) name is found with early Swedish settlers in Pennsylvania (Hazzard's Annals). The first Pearson of record is:

1615 - 1679 - John Pearson - England to Lynne, Mass., 1637

Philadelphia Pearsons

William came with William Penn in 1683 from Chester, England. Located in Chester Co., Pa. The record only mentions three sons:

Isaac m. 9-2-1685 Elizabeth Hall; Benjamin died in 1757;
Enoch of Salisbury Tp. m. 9-12-1712 Margaret, dau of Wm. Smith
Their Children:

- 1- William (8-9-1713) m. 3-13-1740 Elizabeth Dure
- 2- Thomas (12-9-1714, 2-6-1719)
- 3- Mary (11-26-1716) John Scovisange Jr?
- 4- Enoch (3-25-1718)

1741 - 4 - 3 William and Elizabeth g.c.t. Buckingham M. M., Pa.

1793 - 10 - 7 Elizabeth, wife of William, died age 70

No further records of above in Philadelphia.

Other information comes from Bush River M.M., S. C., and Annals of Newberry by John Belton O'Neal of early settlers family. An Enoch Pearson came to Berkeley Co., or Tp., in the 1720's. He had a son, Samuel, born 1728-30, m. 1749. Their names are mentioned together in Annals. Also a William of Pa., and Benjamin mentioned together. Bush River mentions the above Parsons and William Coate, the Inman and Jenkins families as having lived many years previous to 1762 near Bush River. Annals places the date at 1750 or before. Bush River records the death of William of Bucks Co., Pa., at the house of his brother, Thomas 10-7-1782. This Thomas and children rec. f. Bucks Co., Pa., 12-25-1773. Enoch Pearson, dec., of Berkeley Co., also had a daughter, Rebecca, who married Robert Evans in 1762. If Enoch of Salisbury and Enoch of Berkeley Co., are the same, Samuel and Rebecca and possibly another Thomas are the fruits of a second marriage of Enoch. It appears Friends were not organized in Berkeley Co., as while many came from there, there are no transfers of certificates, which is not the case at Fredericksburg.

same of Enoch
Enoch Pearson from Berkeley Co., S. C., but lived and died near Bush River previous to 1762. (Possibly Enoch of Salisbury Tp., who m. Margaret Smith.)
